

Head of Horticultural Society Gives a Brief Review of Its History

President Howard at Opening of Eastern Meeting Here, Gives Review of Work of Fruit Growers for Past Year.

"QUESTION BOX"

Period Held at End of Each Session One of Most Interesting Features of Daily Program.

The annual address delivered by President Lawrence Howard at the opening of the eastern meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, now under way at the Armory in Kingston was an interesting and thoughtful review of the work of the fruit grower for the year past, with a look ahead. It closed with the confident prediction that "in spite of enough serious problems ahead we can look forward to the coming year with a degree of confidence in continued progress toward recovery."

80th Year of the Organization

Mr. Howard in speaking of the fact that this is the 80th year since the founding of the organization in western New York took occasion to briefly review the history of the society. He said "its venerable age may be better realized when it is recalled that it was founded two years before the starting of any state agricultural college or any state experiment station in the land. In the Hudson Valley the first horticultural organization of which I find record was the Hudson Valley Horticultural Association, organized in 1896. A year or two later this became or joined the Eastern New York Horticultural Association. In 1902 this joined hands with the New York State Fruit Growers Association. This in turn, in 1919, merged with the Western New York Horticultural Society to become the New York State Horticultural Society, with its first president, Dr. Hendrick.

Reference was made to the passing of the past year as a pioneer in horticultural meetings in the Hudson Valley. William H. Hart, alert and progressive to the last, it was noted that the first commercial orchard of Cortland apples in the state was his, that he originated a new variety, a sport of the King and that he was a man whose gentle ways had endeared him to all.

Record Weather of February, 1934

An exceptional aspect of the past year was said to be the severe weather experienced in February and its consequences to fruit growers. With the lowest February temperature averages in more than a century damage to fruit trees was greater than previously known to any of the present generation. Fruit crops were cut, certain insects were decimated. A major tragedy was the outcome for some. Looking forward, however, the speaker saw a brighter picture. Many of the old and marginal trees, a former source of discussion, are gone. The coddling moth is back to where it was before the three dry summers. He said, "Nature has done for us what we would not do for ourselves; she has decreased the number of bearing trees." A considerable diminution of the Baldwin crop, for the present at least, was predicted, with a possibility that the variety might even be marked for eventual commercial extinction. A reduction in eastern apple crops, until new growths replace lost bearing surface, was seen.

Mr. Howard questioned whether there would be a planting boom, "with its crowd psychology, harmful to sound judgment," whether growers would again plant orchards that would once more become neglected trees as a result of the general situation. He recommended that new plantings be made soberly, thoughtfully, in suitable locations, on suitable sites suitably drained and that every advantage be taken in the great growth in scientific knowledge that is now available to every fruit grower.

Growers were urged to keep up the fight against the coddling moth and other insects and not to be misled and neglect a proper spraying program, because, due to the severe weather of 1934, the insect problem was not a great as had been the case in the immediate past.

Drop in Export Trade

The speaker called attention to the fact, as stated, that the exportation of apples had dropped from about 20 per cent to about seven per cent of the entire commercial crop of the United States. The revival of this trade has been listed, he said, as one of the ten essential elements in recovery. Mr. Howard said: "From the apple exporters' point of view, the tariffs, restrictions and embargoes imposed on the export trade are well nigh intolerable. Yet this vital matter is handled up with a complicated maladjustment of international trade, national economic and monetary systems running deep and even to understand." He said that a dent in the law of the wall had been made by the French quota, that "no small part of the 300,000 tons of apples late last winter was due to the establishment of this apple-wine exchange quota with France."

15 Gals. of Alcohol That Caused Deaths at Large

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 31 (AP)—At least 15 gallons of the alcohol that caused 33 deaths in central New York are at large in the state, according to a police teletype message received here today. Local police were asked to spread the warning.

The teletype message read: "Fifteen gallons of alcohol have not been accounted for in the investigation being conducted at Gloversville. These cans were last known to have been at Little Falls and have been taken from the place where they were dropped in. The persons responsible for the sale of this alcohol have taken the alcohol with them."

Has Information It Is Hoped May Lead To the Bank Bandits

District Attorney Says Job Bears Earmarks of Having Been Pulled Off by a Professional Mob—Many Saw The Bandit Car.

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, who was at his office in Kingston Wednesday afternoon, when news of the New Paltz bank robbery was received, got busy at once to see that every possible move was made to apprehend the bandits. His office has been on the go ever since on activities connected with the affair and Mr. Murray says that he has received important information, which cannot be divulged at this time, which it is hoped may lead to the criminals. There is also the possibility that fingerprints may have been left by the bandits which may prove of value in disclosing their identity. He adds that the job bears all the earmarks of having been pulled off by a professional mob, and that police officials throughout New York and adjoining states are cooperating in the work of running them down.

Many Saw Bandit Car.

Reports were received at the sheriff's office this morning from a number of people who saw what was undoubtedly the bandit car, either near the bank or after it had crossed the bridge over the Walkkill. Leonard Newkirk, son of Deputy Sheriff Charles Newkirk, said that he was at work in the orchard on the Arbuckle farm, a mile or so out of New Paltz, when he saw a dark sedan pass. He says that the car was going very fast and was headed south on the road toward Libertyville.

At least four others, according to information secured by Attorney Peter H. Harp of New Paltz, saw the car.

Professor Graham, of the Mohonk School, who was driving from Mohonk to New Paltz, stopped at the fork of the road just west of the bridge over the Walkkill to take off his tire chains. While thus engaged he saw a large dark car with five men in it traveling west and going very fast. He said that the car, which bore New Jersey license plates, took the fork of the road toward Libertyville. (It was just after the car had passed this fork in the road that it was seen by Leonard Newkirk.)

Dr. Joseph S. Mason, chiropractor, who lives and has his office just above the bank, reported that he "heard a noise" which was undoubtedly the shot accidentally fired by one of the robbers and thought that a fire had broken out on some car outside. He looked out of the window and saw a large dark car with five men in it. He says that the front door of the car was open and that a large man, who was chewing gum, stood on the running board of the car.

Miss Marks, who lives next to the bank, says that she saw four well-dressed, foreign looking men, cross the street toward the bank. They seemed to be about 30 years of age. Two of them she noticed were gray-haired.

Fred York, who works at the County Farm, reported having seen a large dark car go by. He says it was filled with men and he judged was traveling about 30 miles an hour.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—The position of the treasury on January 29 was: Receipts, $2,224,926.66; expenditures, $2,194,425.74; balance, $2,224,926.66. Customs receipts for the month, $21,623,268.60. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,452,122,262.91; expenditures, $1,995,164,167.58 (including $2,024,514,667.45 emergency expenditures); excess of receipts over expenditures, $456,958,095.33.

A hold bank robbery that rivals the best work of western gunmen was successfully carried out in the staid old town of New Paltz Wednesday afternoon when three bandits, flourishing revolvers, entered the New Paltz savings bank and made good their escape with cash amounting to over $18,000. The exact sum taken, as reported this morning by Howard H. Grimm, president of the bank, is $18,359.11.

As near as can be ascertained it was shortly before 2:30 that two armed men entered the bank and pointing revolvers at the four employees and a depositor in the bank at the time ordered them to lie down on the floor. They were followed by a third gunman, and following his entrance one of the first two jumped the seven-foot railing, landing inside the cage that separated the workers from the customers' portion of the bank. As he made the jump the revolver which he carried was accidentally discharged, the bullet lodging in the ceiling moulding.

Forced to Open Vault

One of the employees was then forced to open the door of the vault and hand out the money, two of the gunmen taking charge of operations within the bank while the third, with revolver ready, stood at the doorway to the building to guard against surprise from without.

Employees in the bank at the time of the robbery were: Herman Glanz, secretary and treasurer; William E. Minard, bookkeeper; George Zimmerman, clerk; Bertha Teaple, stenographer. The depositor who claimed to be in the bank at the time was A. E. Jansen of New Paltz, well-known fruit grower. President Grimm was not in the bank at the time, having stepped up the street shortly before.

After making sure he had secured all the cash which was contained in the vault, the bandit, who had been supervising the operation, made all the employees and Mr. Jansen go inside the vault, closing the grill door. He did not lock the door, nor was he able to close the heavy outside door because of an obstruction that kept it from going shut.

Race Off in Car.

The three men then lost no time in getting into their car, which had been left outside the bank, with the engine running, and raced off down the street in the direction of the Walkkill Valley station.

Shortly after the bandits had gone the employees and Mr. Jansen succeeded in getting out of the vault. Mr. Glanz notified police headquarters at Kingston and they in turn telephoned the sheriff's office. Police headquarters received the call at 2:35.

General Alarm.

No time was lost in sending out a general alarm. Sheriff Saxo notified troopers' headquarters at Sidney and Captain Fox at once got the troopers under his command, which covers the territory to the Pennsylvania state line, in action. The men of Troop K, which covers the Orange county territory, were also on the job in short order.

Posses Sent Out

Meanwhile Sheriff Saxo got busy and a posse consisting of Deputies Abraham Molyneux, Clayton Vredenburg and Charles McCullough, heavily armed, were sent up the Rondout Valley road to Kerhonkson, from where they went over the New Paltz-Mohonk Trail to Benton's Corners and on to New Paltz. Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Senecal also covered this territory, going on to Gardiner, Walkkill and Highland. They found no trace of the bandits. Although Mrs. Carpenter of Benton's Corners said that she had seen a car passing her place at a high rate of speed about 3:15 that afternoon.

Valuable Time Lost

Valuable time was lost in getting after the gunmen at what was probably an important point, the Highland-New Paltz section, because of delay in notifying Sergeant Lockhart and Corporal Baker. The first call sent in by the bank was to Sergeant Lockhart's home in Highland, but instead of informing Mrs. Lockhart, who was wanted, a call was sent to the police at Kingston. Sheriff Saxo, as soon as he learned of the affair, got in touch with Sergeant Lockhart's home and Mrs. Lockhart got in communication with the sergeant and Corporal Baker, who were on duty at Gardiner.

City Patrolmen Taken

In Kingston Chief Wood took every precaution to apprehend the gunmen should they come to the city. Officers were stationed at strategic points and at the Boulevard road of State Street and Putnam were on guard with a sub-machine gun. Officers and troopers were hindered somewhat in their attempt to apprehend the fleeing bandits by the fact that in the first description of the car sent out it was said to be a "redhead" or "hot" sedan. Later it

Federal Government Has Halted Campaign To Return Relief Cases

"Unemployables" Still on Relief Rolls May be Returned to State and Local Care But in Gradual Process.

AWAIT PLAN ACTION

Social Security Program, It Is Believed, Will Take Care of Aged, Children and Others.

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON, JR. (Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) Washington, Jan. 31.—The federal government, authoritative source disclosed today, has called a temporary halt in its drive to return "unemployables" now remaining on its relief rolls back to the care of states and localities.

Although FERA officials said the goal of their campaign is in sight, it was indicated officially that the aged, crippled and other "unemployables" still left on the rolls would be allowed to remain there until after President Roosevelt's social security program is enacted.

Last month, Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, said he would seek to remove all 1,500,000 "unemployable" families from the federal rolls to state and local care. The first deadline mentioned was February 1—tomorrow—but later it was indicated the transfer would be a more gradual process.

The campaign this has been progressing several weeks. Now, officials said today, only 150,000 families in this classification are wholly dependent on the federal role. Statistics on how many are partly dependent were not announced.

FERA officials said that after the president's security plan is passed, the old age pensions and aid to dependent children provided in it will care for the majority of unemployables.

They said also that the $880,000,000 for relief in the $4,880,000,000 work and relief bill now before congress will help provide for unemployables until the states, aided by the social security program, can assume the burden. Another function of the $880,000,000 is to help provide for able-bodied jobless while the government is swinging through its transition from dole to work relief.

When the Roosevelt administration announced its decision about the unemployables in December, there were two reactions. One school of thought hailed it, calling the states and localities the proper agencies to do the job; another raised the question whether they were financially able to do it or not.

In an effort to get the work and relief bill through congress quickly, the Roosevelt administration has yielded to demands from some legislators for more information on how the money will be spent.

Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples was expected to lay data before the senate appropriations committee today.

Administration officials also seek swift action on the social security measure. Secretary Perkins expressed the belief yesterday it should go through by the middle of February so state legislatures in session then can enact laws to get in step with the federal plan.

WINTER'S MOST SEVERE WAVE CONTINUES TODAY.

Malone, Jan. 31 (AP)—The winter's most severe cold wave continued today as January came to an end. Temperatures in Malone ranged from 24 to 28 below zero, while River Bend, the hamlet that sprang into print 10 years ago with a reading of 60 below, reported 41 below. Owl's Head reported "just a nice, snappy winter's day"—49 below. Mountain View reported 42 below and Lake Titus 35 below.

The wind was from the south but it was a bitter one and the damp air covered everything with thick frost.

President's Party a Merry Occasion for 400 Ulster Residents

"MY THANKS AND BEST WISHES"

President F. D. Roosevelt

The 53rd birthday of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a merry occasion for approximately 400 residents of Ulster county, who celebrated the event at Golden Rule Inn, Wednesday night.

Proceeds of the dinner dance, which was arranged by Mrs. Joan Dwyer Goldrick, and her committee, will go to the fund the President has established for cripples afflicted by infantile paralysis.

Patronage of the affair at Golden Rule Inn manifested that residents of this locality are highly in favor of the President's benevolence in considering those maimed by the same malady with which he was stricken in his younger years.

President Thanks All

Then President Roosevelt's speech, made from the White House, was brought to the gathering by radio.

A happy "thank you" was President Roosevelt's response to his nation-wide birthday party. Declaring that 70 per cent of the proceeds from the dances held throughout the country would go to cure for infantile paralysis victims in their home communities, and the remainder for prevention research. He said:

"I need not tell you of my own deep personal happiness that my birthday is being made the occasion for aiding this splendid work. To all of those who are so generously helping the cause of crippled children everywhere, I also send my thanks and best wishes."

Good Entertainment

Following the President's speech, Miss Peggy Hansen, from the Al Skea theatrical agency, took charge of affairs, and as mistress of ceremonies introduced a sparkling entertainment program.

Little Charlotte Haxlin of Miss Helen Cashin's dance school in Kingston, was the first entertainer. She delighted the audience with tap dances, featuring a bit done on a pair of stairs.

After the "little 10-year-old girl" finished, the "Queen of Personality" introduced Miss Jane Ball, another Kingston pupil, who pleased the celebrators with several rhythmic dances. Miss Ball, like her predecessor, was highly applauded.

Then Charles Sorce of Highland (favored with three solos) that he could have sung at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, but turned down an invitation to that famous hostelry to be in Ulster county for the birthday celebration.

Next was Miss Anita Jakobi, direct from Radio City Music Hall, in an exhibition of whirlwind acrobatic dancing that brought a loud round of applause.

From the Cotton Club came the Harlem night provokers, Slim and Eddie, in a series of eccentric dances. And there was a waltz trio, Kehr, Rureauux and Kehr, formerly of Sherry's in New York, who were personifications of grace on the dance floor.

Gigantic Cake

At Skea announced the concluding feature on the program, a march by the culinary department of Golden Rule Inn, bearing a 150-pound cake, baked by Alex Seider of 35 Main street at the Rogers' Bakery in Dutchess.

At the end of the march, Mrs. Joan Dwyer Goldrick, chairman of the dinner dance committee, cut the gigantic cake.

Mrs. Goldrick thanked the Postmaster William R. Kraft, Ulster county Democratic chairman, for the program with a speech of thanks and appreciation for the work done by Mrs. Goldrick and her committee.

Then the Fied Dancers of Troy, the orchestra engaged at Golden Rule, and former entertainers on the Stranahan location in 1927 and 28, furnished music for dancing.

Many of those at the ball, and others unable to attend, sent messages to the President through the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies.

The President received so many of

"By-Pass" Approved; County Hasn't Options For the Rights of Way

Approval from federal and state authorities for the construction of the "By-Pass" to extend over East Chester street from Broadway, north to Tannum street, across Flatbush avenue, joining the present B-W route above the West Shore Railroad crossing on Albany avenue extension has been announced by the division engineer's office in Poughkeepsie.

Options for the rights of way through the city have been obtained by the city. The county through its committee of rights of ways has not as yet secured the options, despite the fact that it has known that it is imperative to do so and has been in possession of the knowledge of approval.

Bids cannot be let until the options have been secured and it is hoped that the bids may be advertised by February 15, so that actual work may be started by March 15 or April 1 in order that the work will be completed before the frost sets in. Delay in the matter would mean that the work of completing the road, would be put off for another year.

Potential Witness In Lindbergh Trial Found Gagged Today

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—Fannette Rivkin, 23-year-old proprietress of a Bronx beauty parlor, who had offered to testify for the prosecution in the Hauptmann trial, was found today gagged and trussed in her burning establishment the apparent victim of an attempt at murder.

She was rescued by the superintendent of the building, who noticed smoke coming from the beauty parlor, and entered to find the woman lying unconscious on the floor, a rope tight around her neck, a metal gag in her mouth and her hands and feet securely bound.

With the help of firemen the superintendent, John Espinosa, put out the fire. Miss Rivkin was revived by an ambulance doctor, but her condition was such that she could give no immediate explanation of what had happened to her. She had apparently lost consciousness when her frantic attempts to loosen the rope around her neck caused it to tighten instead.

She was removed to Morrisania hospital, where police will question her when her condition permits.

Offered Testimony

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Fannette Rivkin, Bronx beauty parlor operator, has offered to testify for the prosecution in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. It was learned today.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz said that he had not yet determined whether he would call the woman and declined to indicate the nature of her possible testimony.

15 MINERS HAMMERED INTO UNCONSCIOUSNESS

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP)—Fifteen miners were hammered into unconsciousness today in a clash between United Mines Workers of America and United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania, rival unions. A similar outbreak occurred yesterday.

More than 250 members of the two unions took part in the fighting at Number 2 shaft of the South Wilkes-Barre colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Company, as members of the Anthracite Miners, the younger union, marched in a body toward the mine.

There they were met by about an equal number of the United Mines Workers. Fighting started after a series of spoken words for both sides.

Three of the injured were removed to hospital.

The strike between the two unions in the anthracite district has been continuing for more than a year.

Freight Movement Up

Washington (AP)—Class I railroads averaged 626,000 cars of freight per week in October, 1934. That was 2,000 cars per week more than in September, but 14,000 cars less than in October, 1933, the bureau of labor statistics reports.

Louis Kiss Testifies That He Saw Hauptmann in Bakery at 8:15 P. M. on Night of March 1, 1932.

BOOTLEGGED RUM

Kiss Admits Selling Rum "To Friends," Carlstrom Uses Constitutional Right on Stand.

By William A. Kinney.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 31.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense sought today to break the state's circumstantial murder evidence chain with a third alibi witness to place Hauptmann more than 60 miles away from the kidnapping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Louis Kiss said he saw Hauptmann in Christian Frederickson's Bronx bakery-restaurant shortly after 8:15 p. m., the night of March 1, 1932. His word supported the testimony given before him by Elvert Carlstrom, 27-year-old carpenter helper, and Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the defendant.

Meanwhile, in New York, a woman who offered to testify for the state against Hauptmann in connection with his spending of Lindbergh ransom bills, was found unconscious, bound and gagged, on the floor of her beauty parlor, in which a fire had started. She was Fannette Rivkin.

A building superintendent rescued her and she was taken to a hospital, unable immediately to say what had happened to her, or who her assailants were.

The witness Kiss was made to admit on cross-examination that he bootlegged rum before repeal, and Carlstrom was forced to resort to a constitutional right, when Attorney General David A. Wilentz asked him about his activity in Brooklyn after he visited the bakery in the Bronx.

Carlstrom said the answer would incriminate him, but later explained he was "in the company of women." Both witnesses were closely cross-questioned on dates and places as the state sought to show they had poor memories.

Kiss completed his testimony, as luncheon recess was declared. Kiss said he read of Hauptmann's story of taking Frederickson's police dog out on the night of the crime, and then he remembered that he had dropped into a Bronx bakery for a cup of coffee on that night. He called Defense Attorney Edward J. Kelly's office last Sunday to tell about it, he said.

Before he took the stand Attorney General David T. Wilentz continued an effort begun yesterday to discredit the alibi testimony of Carlstrom and caused that witness to resort to his constitutional right not to answer a question which he said would incriminate him. The question, concerning his activity in Brooklyn after he left the Bronx bakery on the night of March 1, 1932, was answered, however, on redacted examination when Carlstrom explained he was "in the company of women."

Wilentz indicated in other questions that he intended to call Arthur Larsen for rebuttal to testify that Carlstrom spent the night of March 1, 1932 in a house at Dunnellen, N. J., and could not have been in the Bronx.

Kiss said that when he read Hauptmann's testimony in the newspapers, the dog, the Bronx and the bakery, and the radio reports of the Lindbergh kidnapping broadcast at the time, all became connected in his memory.

"I jumped up and I says to my wife," he began, only to be cut off by the state objection.

He said he was in the bakery and a man came in with a dog. "What happened concerning that man?" Kelly asked.

"That lady who served me the coffee," he said, "came from the back and that man about two or three feet in front of me met that lady and that man saying to him in German, 'Somebody want to take away the dog,' that is the way how I remember the whole thing, because he saying that in German. Then I looked up at the man and I drink my coffee and I walk off. I forgot the whole thing."

"What did the man say in German to the lady?"

"He man hat roll das dog—das hund sechmann."

He translated it to "Somebody wanted to take the dog away."

"Now, did you see the man in the courtroom?" Kelly continued.

"Yes, sir."

"Where is he?"

Kiss stood up. He stretched an arm toward Hauptmann.

"Right there."

Before Carlstrom's cross-examination was resumed today defense attorneys called the prosecution before the judge's bench for a long, white-garbed conference. It was learned later the defense was complaining of published statements purporting to have come from the prosecutors to the effect that defense witnesses would be investigated for perjury.

Health Funds Grow At Birthday Parties For the President

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 31 (AP)—Happy Americans, smiling just as broadly as the honor guest, had a huge time at the nation-wide birthday party given President Franklin D. Roosevelt for the benefit of infantile paralysis sufferers throughout the land.

Health funds grew as the 53rd birthday of the President passed into history to the accompaniment of cheers, laughter and dancing from New York to Frisco and from Dixie to the Great Lakes. Thousands of dollars were raised for the fight against infantile paralysis.

The 200 patients at the Warm Springs foundation and their relatives cut a huge cake which bore the inscription "Happy Birthday, President Roosevelt." The cake was five feet high and it bore 53 candles, although the Roosevelt family doesn't count above 21 when it comes to birthdays.

The children here gave a costume show, dressing up to depict famous personages of the day.

The President in a nation-wide radio broadcast from the White House last night told persons attending 7,500 birthday balls of his gratitude for the celebration.

"I like this kind of a birthday," he said.

It was a monster celebration in New York—almost a quarter of a million people joining in the fun. The President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, marched at the head of a procession into the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria.

Eight thousand attended the balls at Los Angeles and 2,000 at Hollywood.

The smart Colony Club at Palm Beach, Fla., was crowded with fashionable folk. Tickets for this affair brought from $10 to $250.

In Miami, Thomas Armour, a carpenter who is credited with saving President Roosevelt from the bullets of the assassin Giuseppe Zangara, was given the first slice of cake at the birthday party.

Chicago's celebration saw the sale of a 2,000 pound cake for $450. Mayor Edward Kelly bid in the first slice at $100.

The south turned out in large numbers to celebrate the day.

The greetings of Birmingham, Ala., and the Tennessee Valley were taken to President Roosevelt by George McLaurine, a crippled youth who received treatment at Warm Springs, and by Anne Brown, 15-year-old Decatur, Ala., high school student.

Prisoners at the Illinois State Penitentiary enjoyed the day, too, getting a six-hour respite from the usual shop work.

Does His Share

His father jobless, 1-year-old Billy Shanks (above) had no money to contribute to the President's fund for crippled children, but that didn't stop him. He carved toy dogs out of wood and sold them after school to raise money, and his 25 cent contribution was praised above 30,000 others in Baltimore, Md. (Associated Press Photo)

DRY BROOK.

Dry Brook, Jan. 31.—Miss Marie Bussey of Margaretville spent the week-end with Miss Magdalena Stewart.

A party of young people met at the home of Magdalena Stewart Saturday evening and spent the time tobogganing and sledding on Belle Ayre highway. Refreshments were in order at the midnight hour, consisting of hot dogs, etc. About 20 were present and reported a fine time.

An item in recent issue of news stated that around $75 was received at a supper given by Mrs. John Haynes. This was a mistake as the supper netted $42, and a quilt sold for the benefit of the hospital was included in estimate, as supper was also given for benefit of hospital. It is hoped this has led to no misunderstanding as all moneys raised were turned in with exact amount raised.

Residents of this place were shocked to hear of illness and untimely death of Jay Gould who had been associated with this place from childhood. He was staying at his summer home, "Forge Cottage," when stricken and was rushed to Margaretville Hospital, where he died after little more than 24 hours. Dr. Sutherland attended him and his personal physician was called from the city, also a specialist, but both agreed local physician was doing everything possible and gave very little hope of recovery. Mrs. Gould was visiting the western coast and came by airplane to New York city, bringing with her her son, Jay, who is attending a Dude Ranch in Arizona. Anne, a daughter, who recently eloped with Frank Meader at Texas, also came by plane to New York on learning of her father's death. Mr. and Mrs. Ludlow Stevens, his older daughter, also his brother, Kingston Gould, were summoned from New York. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens stayed with him until the end.

ROSENDALE

Rosendale, Jan. 31.—The Boy Scout Council met at the home of Harry West Monday, January 29 and elected Nicholas Lippert as scoutmaster. Mr. Lippert has consented and has accepted the responsibility. Next week the council and master will meet with Mr. Wright of Kingston. Future plans will then be made.

The Women's Auxiliary, Active Home No. 1, will hold a card party February 7 at the Firemen's Hall.

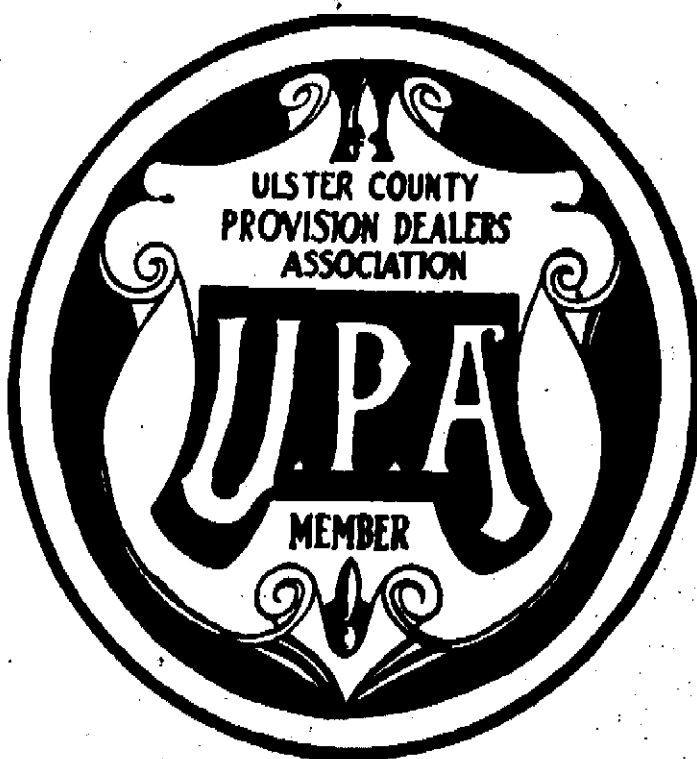

The Ladies Aid of the Rosendale Reformed Church met at the home of Mrs. Henry Myers on Wednesday, January 30. The usual business was transacted.

The All Saints Episcopal Church are painting and making repairs in the parish hall.

The 4-H Club of Rosendale is holding a cake and candy sale Saturday afternoon, February 2 in Burt Rosa's store.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles, it is because you haven't heard of Hem-Roid the modern internal medicine discovered by a western physician.

After years of study Dr. J. E. Lee has been convinced that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowels—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. He immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his life-saver HEM-ROID.

His life-saver HEM-ROID are benefiting doubt or delay longer when you know why it cures all kinds of Piles. No matter what kind of Piles you have, the HEM-ROID will cure them. You can get the safe way to get rid of your Pile misery or misery back.—Ad.

Car Theft Ring Sought Today by Guardsmen In a Kentucky County

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)
Manchester, Ky., Jan. 31 (AP).—National guardsmen and state police rolled into this foothill town today in a surprise move to break up what Adjutant General Henry H. Denhardt called "an automobile theft ring headed by a prominent official."

The force, commanded by Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, halted on the outskirts of Manchester a few minutes while the long string of 13 national guard trucks and half dozen state police cars closed up.

A score or more of people, some afoot and some on horseback, preceded the soldiers and police into town. Citizens rushed to the main public square as the trucks rolled in. Heads popped out of windows as the troops formed in the square.

The guardsmen and police, about 150 in number, were issued full rounds of ammunition at London, in an adjoining county. They met a quiet reception.

Machine guns and hand grenades and snatching gas guns as well as rifles were in evidence. The 110 soldiers and some 40 state police stood in shivering groups in the square, waiting orders to disperse.

From the crowd which soon grew to several hundreds, there was heard various comment, some resentful. Occasionally, there was a scribe one with an emphatic "glad they came."

The charges made by Adjutant General H. H. Denhardt in announcing the mobilization of the troops were the second made in two years by a state official. Two years ago Nat B. Sewell, state inspector and examiner, made a report to Governor Ruby Laffoon deprecating that Clay county be abolished.

Shortly before that Commonwealth's Attorney Frank Baker had been assassinated by shots apparently fired from the courthouse one Sunday morning, and another man nearby was killed. Baker had told his friends he believed he would be slain if he went back into the county to investigate into slayings there had included that of Police Judge C. P. Stivers and a negro. Later, outbreaks included the slaying of two women and three men in another part of the county known as the Double Creek section. Testimony indicated shots had been fired into cabins in that case.

Sewell's official report of conditions in the rocky foothill section, sparsely peopled by 18,000 persons, recommended the action by the 1934 legislature to end what he called "clan contests which have made the county notorious for nearly half a century."

Although Sewell said he believed 90 per cent of the residents of Clay county to be intelligent, law abiding, honorable and endowed with the qualities of good citizenship, he declared "The great trouble, unreasonable as it may seem, is that 90 per cent" have been dominated by the 10 per cent who have, through succeeding generations, controlled the courts, the management of public affairs, and the customs of the people.

To the Sewell report Circuit Judge William Lewis retorted that Clay county has had fewer cases of homicide within the last ten years than many counties in this section of Kentucky.

He said that except for one outbreak in which nobody was killed there had been no feud outbreak in the county for 30 years.

Forcibly Ejected From The Committee Room

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP).—A representative of the National Congress for Unemployment and Social Insurance, Herbert Benjamin of New York city, was forcibly ejected from the House Ways and Means Committee room today when he vigorously criticized the President and the administration's social security legislation.

Insisting that he must have time to express "bitterness and resentment against those who even now are attempting to enact a program of security for wealth and profit," Benjamin demanded that he be allowed more than the five minutes given to each witness to express his attitude on the administration's bill.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said, however, that "your testimony is developing into a tirade against the committee and the President of the United States, so you have no right to continue."

The chairman called Lieutenant B. H. Crook, a Capitol police officer with the assistance of a plain clothes detective, took the struggling Benjamin from the committee room.

Benjamin was held in the Capitol police station for a few minutes and then released.

Council Discusses TERA Art Project

In informal session last night in the offices of the city clerk, the Board of Aldermen wrestled with the Muses and came away beaten, the practical side of "Art for Art's sake" having floored the city's legislative body. The occasion was planned to seek a method of obtaining between $100 and $200 to provide paints, brushes and canvases for artists, who will be hired by the TERA to create one or more appropriate pictures for the walls of the city hall, it being a part of the policy of the federal government to provide work for deserving artists as an emergency relief measure.

While the federal government will provide 100 per cent payment for the services of the artists chosen to create a canvases for the city, the government also says that the localities in which the artists to provide the actual equipment necessary for such work.

Not less than $100 nor more than $200 worth of paints, canvas and brushes will be necessary for the paintings planned by a committee in charge of the project headed by Anton Otto Fischer. The city fathers debated where such a sum could be obtained, it being the consensus of opinion that the project was a worthy one and deserving of attention.

The aldermen decided that the money should be appropriated but they were unable to find any place in the city budget from which to take the sum, so the matter was left open to further thought.

According to plans one of the pictures will be placed on the large wall space facing the main entrance of the city hall. Possibly another will be placed on the wall behind the president's chair of the common council chamber. If there are sufficient funds additional paintings or decorations may be placed at appropriate spots in the municipal auditorium.

Work on the projects is expected to begin when money has been provided.

Poison Liquor Case Declared Solved

Gloversville, N. Y., Jan. 31 (AP).—The Mohawk Valley poison liquor case was declared solved by District Attorney Bernard W. Carney early today as he announced he was preparing five warrants charging manslaughter in connection with the deaths of 21 persons in Ulster and Gloversville since last Thursday.

Carney, with state and federal officials, grilled several suspects for six hours last night. He refused to comment other than to say the "case is solved and we will begin serving the warrants as soon as possible."

During the questioning Gloversville police raided a store and seized a large quantity of alcohol and wine and turned it over to chemists for analysis. It was not known whether or not the latest seizure was part of the lethal beverage which has killed 15 persons in Ulster and 16 in Gloversville.

In addition to the five manslaughter warrants, Carney said five other warrants charging violations of the beverage laws are being prepared.

The special ward established at Nathan Littauer Hospital for poison alcohol sufferers remained crowded today but all patients were reported in "fair" condition. There were no new applicants for treatment last night.

A warning to citizens of Little Falls was given today by Gloversville police who said three illegal cans of the poison alcohol still were somewhere in that city.

Williams Freed Of Larceny Charge

Thomas Williams, 34-year-old negro, whom the police arrested last week on a first year old grand larceny charge, went free this morning when the complainant, Wallace Cloud of Maiden, withdrew the charge in city court.

Williams was accused of stealing Cloud's automobile and then making a getaway. He was arrested in Westchester county for assault and given four years in Connecticut prison. Williams' home is in Tuckahoe, N. Y.

Patrolmen Bert Super and Wesley Cramer placed Williams under arrest when he left the prison last Friday.

Richard W. Child Dies Of Pneumonia Today, Was Once Ambassador

64-year-old Attorney and Writer Caught Cold Several Days Ago—Ambassador to Italy Under Harding.

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—Richard Washburn Child, attorney, writer and former ambassador to Italy, died at his home, early today from pneumonia.

Child, who was 64, caught cold several days ago and the cold developed into pneumonia. He was named ambassador to Italy by President Harding.

The funeral, it was learned, will be held Saturday. Interment will be at Newport, R. I.

Richard Washburn Child was an author as well as a diplomat.

Collaborated With Mussolini
His collaboration with Premier Benito Mussolini in 1927 on the Italian autobiography served to bring him to the attention of another set of literati, those on the continent.

He went from the post of editor of Collier's weekly, which he held in 1919, to that of Ambassador to Italy where he served from May, 1921, to February, 1924. In 1922 he was the chief representative of the United States at the Genoa and Lausanne conferences.

An ambassador serving under Republican presidents, he bolted the party in 1932 to lead a league of Roosevelt Republicans which worked for the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as President.

Italy decorated him with the order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus, and with the order of the Crown of Italy. He summarized his European diplomatic experiences in 1925 in a book, "A Diplomat Looks at Europe."

Born in Worcester, Mass., Aug. 5, 1881, Child attended Harvard University which in 1924 added to his academic degrees the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

He was admitted to the bar in 1906, coming first to national notice during the World War when he worked as an assistant to Frank A. Vanderlip in war finance work in the U. S. Treasury.

Among his later works were "Battling the Criminal" and "Writing on the Wall" in 1928, and the "Pitcher of Romance" in 1930. Child also contributed to numerous magazines fiction and articles on public questions.

He married his first wife, Maude Parker, in August, 1916. To them were born two children, Anne and Constance. He married Eva Saderson in September, 1927, and Dorothy G. Everson in September, 1931. Mrs. Everson had been secretary. Child maintained his home at Newport, R. I., where he founded a summer economic conference.

First Series of New "Baby Bonds"

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP).—Secretary Morgenthau announced today the first series of the treasury's new "baby bonds" will be offered the public on March 1.

Legislation authorizing this new type of United States saving bonds and increasing the treasury's borrowing power by $9,000,000,000 is ready for President Roosevelt's signature.

The "baby bonds", so-called because offered in small denominations, will have a ten year maturity. No amount as yet has been fixed for the initial offering.

They will be sold on a discount basis, which means that the compound interest will be deducted from the purchase price, and the bonds will be matured at par. They will not have the circulating privilege, nor can they be transferred. They will actually not come into the possession of buyers, but will be held in the treasury which will tender to the purchasers a receipt.

A new series of the bonds will be issued on the first of every month.

MORE AIR PIONEERING.

A curious public debate took place recently in London. The Mollisons—James and Amy, of aviation fame—debated before an audience of women engineers. The subject discussed was the value of record-breaking flights.

Mrs. Mollison maintained that such flights "no longer serve any useful purpose." The era for them, she asserted, ended with the air race to Australia last fall. The pioneer work of aviation was over. The public had lost interest in stunt flights, making it almost impossible for aviators to finance them any more. Experimental flying, if still necessary, should be supported and carried out by commercial interests. Mrs. Mollison maintained that there was much pioneer flying still to be done. He mentioned the stratosphere as one field for new record-seeking flights and announced his own determination to try it if he could secure backing.

The Women's Engineering Society listened closely to all the arguments and then gave the verdict to the would-be record-breaking. From this distance, and with only the reports of the debate to go on, it looks as if they were both right in part. Repeating dangerous stunt flights indefinitely without any new discoveries or gains to aeronautical design seems foolish now. But there is still plenty of air-exploring to be done, and somebody will have to take some of the risks involved in doing it.

A SENSIBLE CITIZEN

With the country so full of prophets preaching various brands of economic salvation, with several of them gaining followers by the million, and with their plans largely cancelling each other, an editor finds considerable satisfaction in receiving and printing this sane letter:

Sir: I saw in your paper a letter headed "Huey Long Horde," and signed "Townsend Backer." The writer seems to believe that neither Huey nor anyone else has a right to make plans; that is, no one else but Dr. Townsend! I suppose that is one of the many peculiar attributes of humans, believing that the things they personally believe in are the only things that could possibly be right.

I do not belong to Huey Long's organization, nor to any other. But I have read and listened to his ideas, and certainly, to one who is unbiased, they seem fully as feasible as Dr. Townsend's! I suppose that is one of the many peculiar attributes of humans, believing that the things they personally believe in are the only things that could possibly be right.

The most powerful influence in the world might work to defeat any of them, as it has, so far, the New Deal. This influence is commonly called Human Nature. I might think of other names for it—"human obstinacy" or "human selfishness," for example.

However, all this may be, badly as we need a great change of some sort, it is very foolish to believe that any one "plan" could correct all of the grievous ills that afflict us.

PLAY-ACTING IN COURT.

"Could it be possible for a court—judge, prosecutor and jury—to give its whole attention to determining the guilt or innocence of the accused?" asks a reader, after following the Lindbergh kidnapping case for three weeks and trying to get at the heart of it. "The ravings of a prosecutor for the death penalty are just as repulsive to me as the booming of a defense attorney to befuddle witnesses in their endeavor to tell the truth. Created excitement and sob stuff should have no place in a trial where a life is at stake."

Such things have no place, or a very slight one, in English courts from which ours are supposed to be descended, nor in Canadian courts. We turn justice into a legal drama—or a sport.

GUN-MAKERS AGAIN

A new slant on the question of a one-year ban on duck shooting is suggested in a sentence in a news story about the recent American game conference. The little hunters—those who have makeshift equipment and can get out only one or two days a season—are generally in favor of the duckless year in order to give the birds a chance to increase in number. The big hunters—those who have elaborate equipment and who belong to exclusive private clubs or who operate clubs for others—are more interested in immediate sport or financial gain and less in the future of the duck population.

"Far in the background," reads the thought-provoking sentence, "are the manufacturers of arms and ammunition who would feel most heavily the effects of a one-year ban." So here we have the munitions-making villain again, this time a threat to wild ducks of North America. Perhaps his losses could be avoided by stressing some other sort of shooting, the year of the duck moratorium.

MENTAL ILLMENTS.

Despite the fact that of every 10 patients that enter a mental hospital 6 or 7 are able to return home or to business, the fact that 3 or 4 still require treatment means that our mental hospitals now have as many patients as all the other hospitals combined.

This is naturally discouraging but of course it is the brain of man that raises him above the animal world, and it is a highly organized delicate organ. The Creator saw to it that a strong bony case surrounded it, so that it can withstand severe bumps or accidents.

However it would appear that it is the "bumps of life"—grief, sorrow, worry, anxiety, financial loss and other depressing emotions that are often too much for the highly organized human brain. Sometimes in very early life has left a little mark or strain in the mental life of the individual that aggravates the early condition and the individual becomes even more "different."

And as mentioned before, often some physical cause, infected teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, sinus or intestine—may cause the individual to behave in a queer or odd manner. It is because all this is now so well known to the family doctor and to the general practitioner that there are great hopes that mental ailments will become less in the future.

Thus every physician now takes the full history of each new patient by letting the patient tell his own story. Dr. Lauren H. Smith, Philadelphia says that "this history must include details concerning the entire life: childhood, teen age, youth and onward. The gaps in the history may mean more than the patient states. Facts about emotional experiences, points about the inner mental life, and influences there have been on, and their effects on his thoughts and actions."

Thus with a thorough physical examination which will correct any physical defect or infection, and a "mental" examination which will detect or bring to light the cause of the odd behavior and remove its effects, the number of mental cases should gradually grow less.

SYNOPSIS: By a clever ruse, the Montana Kid and Mateo, who have been in the forest at Durango, have been able to get a good case, for they have promised to return to the good Bishop Sullivan the sacred cross of Our Lady which the governor stole from the Bishop's church. But Montana and Mateo are in great danger in spite of their disguise.

Chapter 12 THE DANCE

THE map of the fort which the Kid had been able to draw out of the information of Miguel Santos and the girl seemed perfectly accurate, and so Rubric had boasted. It was perfectly in his mind.

He led the way without a saw up the two flights of stairs which had been cut into the wall of the fortress and then into a great hall, long and narrow, where only two or three weak lights were burning. Three long tables, ran down the center of the room.

In the farther corner of this hall was a door which opened upon a short corridor that ran directly to the lower apartments of General Ignacio Estrada, in command. The two were not quite across the floor when hinges creaked.

Montana, leaping into the black of the corner, whirled to see that a dozen young officers had entered the room, carrying a big banner, and that Rubric was still visible to them. His bare foot had slipped on a stone as he strove to spring after Montana.

And at that instant a bawling voice cried: "Halt! Come here and pick up this banner. What are gentlemen doing? Wait on themselves when there are dogs like you around!"

"Stand fast! Don't move for me!" gasped Rubric to the Kid, covertly tearing away his mask as he spoke. "Pray for me! I frout them!"

And he turned and walked straight back towards the group!

"Rubric!" shouted one of the officers. And Rubric obediently ran, springing forward with wonderful lightness in spite of the bulk of his unwieldy body.

"The basket on the table. Stand away, Pedro, and let this fellow do the work."

"He can't lift it," said Pedro.

"Can't he, though? Look at the shoulders of him. If they're not all fat, he may be able to. These poor devils have strength."

There was a sudden shout as Rubric leaped, lifted the basket, and said it onto the table.

"That's Mexico!" said the eldest of the officers. "Look at the muscles to those legs! Pull off your dirty shirt and let's see your body, too!"

"Forgive me," said Rubric. "I am called to my work. Another—"

"Halt! Are you working for soldiers and question commands?" Show him the way, Pedro! Off with it!"

Two of them grabbed the cheap white shirt and instantly it was ripped from the back of Rubric.

"There!" called out the commander. "Did I tell you? Not for nothing. All muscles—all prestrength I'd stake that man against a mile. Where did you get those muscles, man?"

"In the mines, sir," said Rubric, his head bowed, his shaggy hair falling forward.

"Look at him! He's ashamed to be naked, even before men. What are those white marks? Scaras? Knife cuts? Come on, and we'll find a story in this one. Open the wine!"

THAT was quickly done. The hamper was thickly packed with wine-bottles, and the corks had barely ceased popping before glasses began to brim and pour down wide throats.

The Kid, from his corner, covered the gay little party with two revolvers and shifted his aim from breast to breast, from head to head. He was perfectly convinced now, that he and Rubric could never escape from the fort. But if they did, so would come of those jolly sports.

"What are these scaras? What sort of a peach are you?" asked the commander. "More like a damned mountain billy, to my eye. Look at him and try to remember! Haven't I seen that face on posters with a reward for him. Dead or alive?"

The nerves of Montana prickled through his skin. It seemed that the best moment would be the end of Rubric, or the beginning of the end.

But the deep voice of the outlaw answered: "I was hurt by a fall in the mine, sir. I was carrying a basket up the ladder."

Tomorrow, Montana and Rubric enter the apartment of the governor.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Jan. 30—Miss Edith Bell, who has been attending the High Falls Public School, has successfully passed her regents' examinations and has entered Kingston High School.

Miss Elaine Johnson of The Clove, a pupil of Mrs. Preston Church, passed her regents' examinations with honors and is also attending Kingston High School.

The winter rally of the Roundtop Valley Sunday School Association will be held on Friday, February 2, at the Accord Reformed Church.

February 10 is Boy Scouts' Day in the church and Scout Troop No. 19 will attend in a body.

Last year the training school was held in Kingston and was attended by the pastor's wife, Mrs. Clarence Howard, and the Sunday School superintendent, Mrs. Ernest Janssen.

We trust that some from this place may be able to take up the course for the year.

Mrs. Dewitt Stokes of The Clove has had a stroke of paralysis.

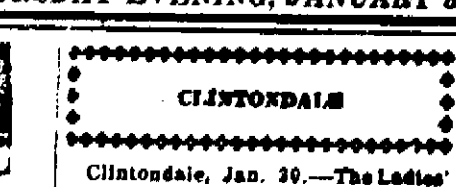

Miss Louise D. Van Wageningen of Kingston is a guest at the home of Mrs. Preston Church, motoring out with her from Kingston on Sunday afternoon.

The thermometer took a big drop on Sunday and on Monday morning the thermometers in the village registered 26 degrees below zero.

Mrs. Preston Temple, Mrs. Charles Barker, Mrs. Charles Kasper and Charles Ten Haggen have recovered from recent illnesses.

Flash Snowing in Europe

In many backward sections of Europe today, so for many past centuries, snowing came in not only from the front door but also from the back door, and it was not unusual to find a small piece of snow in the neck of the family cat. Colliers' Weekly.

"And the damned ladder broke and gave you a fall!" asked the commander.

He leaped back a little, his thin face sneering as he stared at the half-naked, powerful body of Mateo Rubric.

"No, but the forehead band that supported the basket of ore broke, and the basket fell and knocked another man off the ladder. That man was killed by his fall."

"Listen! I told you there were stories in this lump of a man."

"I was only a few steps from the top of the ladder, and as I came up the overcoiler, who had seen what had happened, hit me with the butt of his man-whip, and that knocked me down into the shaft again."

"You see how they treat these fellows? The other man was killed, but you lived through it, eh?"

"I was weeks in the hospital," said Rubric.

"Discipline," declared the officer. "That's what it takes. Knock fools over the head when they make mistakes, and there'll be fewer mistakes."

"There'll be more broken heads," said Pedro.

"What do you mean? Look at this head! It would still take a parcel of breaking. Not many brains under that shock of hair, but enough to know how to lift hampers of wine for his betters. And for all that he's been through, he still has a light enough hand to steal the gold out of your teeth while you sleep, (b) wagger. Jump up there on the table and give us a dance, you!"

"There is no music, sir," said Rubric.

The officer picked up a quirt, drew the lashes through his hand, and then struck the table.

"Up on the table, and we'll give you music!" he shouted. "Up with you!"

And he slashed Rubric across the naked body.

It seemed to Montana, as his thumbs hooked over the hampers of the revolvers, ready to open fire, that Rubric was in the very act of hurling himself at the man of the whip. Instead, without touching the table with his hands, he leaped lightly on top of it.

The officers shouted. They began to strike the table in a quick rhythm with their whips. And to that rhythm poor Rubric had to dance. When some of them made a mistake and landed heavily on his body instead of on the table, he had to leap the higher.

It was frantic work. In a few minutes he was staggering. And at last Pedro it was who called out: "Let the poor fool stop. See, Luis, where you draw the blood on him! He's had enough exercise for one evening. Get down!"

Rubric jumped to the floor.

"Give him a few coppers," said Pedro. "And he'll be able to forget his torn shirt."

"What about his torn skin?"

"What does skin matter? It grows again without any cost!"

"Here's the money."

"It's too much," decided this-faced Luis, the superior officer. And he dropped a portion of it, calmly, into his own pocket.

"Give him the rest, then," said Pedro.

"Give it to him? Give a dog food with my own hands? Let him rot for it, the swine!"

So Luis buried the money from him. It rattled on the floor. It rolled clinking into the farthest corner, and Rubric darted after it, sometimes almost shuffling on hands and knees in his apparent eagerness. The officers followed his antics with relish of the highest appreciation.

But a toast proposed by one of them suddenly called all heads and all eyes towards their own group. It was at that moment that Montana drew open the door into the corridor of the general rooms and big Rubric sprang through the gap.

His eyes were insane. There was only one glittering light here, in the foul air, by which to see the outlaws, but even that light was too much for Montana. Rubric, for an instant, buried his hands in his hair. Then he turned and beat his head against the wall.

Only after a long moment could he hold up one hand. When he opened it Montana could see a dozen copper coins in the palm.

First President Use of Gas

In 1284 Doctor Pictet, a German chemist, lighted his laboratory with the gas obtained by the distillation of iron, probably the first attempt at the practical use of gas for heating and lighting purposes.

By HERBERT PLUMMER
 WASHINGTON—One of the most persistent rumors in Washington, revived with increased authority every time Huey Long of Louisiana goes on a rampage in the senate, is that the "kingfish" plans a personal invasion of two southern states in 1936 for the avowed purpose of defeating two of his colleagues.

The two mentioned are Joe Robinson of Arkansas, democratic leader of the senate, and Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate's powerful finance committee.

Robinson and Long already have exchanged darts on the floor of the senate. During the last congress the "kingfish" observed that he had settled a political matter with Robinson when he campaigned for Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway in her successful bid for the senate and shouted:

"I'll go back to the people of Arkansas again and see who comes back to the senate."

Robinson's reply was that "if he comes into Arkansas, I'll take the liberty of going into Louisiana."

May Invade Mississippi
 WHILE he has made no such open threat against Harrison, southern politicians who profess to know say they have no doubt he has plans to invade Mississippi.

One disclosed to the writer recently the details of a conversation he had with Long in the Louisiana state capital only a short while ago. He was visiting Baton Rouge in a private capacity when a messenger from Long informed him "the kingfish" wants to see you."

This individual called on the "kingfish," who, with much emphasis and frankness, he says, revealed just what he thought of Harrison and what he planned to do to relegate him to political oblivion in 1936.

He'll Be Busy
 THE Louisiana senator, however, has mapped out such an ambitious political program for himself in 1936 that many believe it will be physically impossible, even for the "kingfish," to accomplish all of it.

For one thing he has intimated that 1936 may find him running for the presidency on his "Share-the-Wealth" platform. If so, it will not be in the southern states where he will pick up electoral votes. He must convince most of his effort to populous sections of the country.

It is true that he has persuaded his state legislature to advance the primary election date in Louisiana and will have more time for outside work than ordinarily he would have had. But the fact that he will be seeking reelection to the senate himself in 1936, perhaps running for the presidency and threatening to bring about the defeat of colleagues, prompts Robinson and Harrison to take up threats of the "kingfish" rather lightly.

Talks to parents
 Shifting Responsibility
 By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
 I'm tired of being nagged. It's always "Mary, hang up your coat," or "Wash your hands," or "Clear up your room." If you'd stop nagging I'd do the things."

Mary had lately been reading articles on nagging mothers, and had decided she was one of the down-trodden children she heard described. Her mother waited for the end of the tirade and after a minute's thought replied very quietly:

"Daughter, has it ever occurred to you that you are a nagging child? Why should you, by your persistent carelessness, call me to task for my other duties to remind you to hang up your clothes? I had much rather have you independent and able to get along without correction."

Of late years the tendency has been to lay all the burden of proof on the parents, and to some extent this is quite justifiable. At some moment in a child's career, however, responsibility must be laid on the child's own shoulders, and no good is to be done by telling it persistently, as we do most of our modern psychiatry, that its parents are to blame for all its shortcomings.

The child who is permitted to shift the blame for its faults on a nagging parent or bullying brother or a sense of inferiority inborn by childhood environment, will never succeed. His loss of a job, his inefficiency, his failure in marriage, in social contacts, will none of them be his fault, but the fault of employers, or partners, or, in the last analysis, background.

The less the little child hears of psychology and the curious pattern of "inferiority complexes," "Oedipus complexes," the fatal results of "fixating," environmental condition, the better. A little knowledge is a dangerous thing, especially for inexperience.

STONE RIDGE
 Stone Ridge, Jan. 30.—A meeting of the teachers of the town of Marlborough and the welfare officers, L. Brown and Harold Biller, was held at Stone Ridge school district No. 5 to discuss the problem of furnishing milk to undernourished children who are border line cases.

DeWitt Jansen of Stone Ridge, who is in charge of the farm of the late Frederick Davis, is to furnish Grade A milk to the schools in the town of Marlborough. From one-half pint to a quart of milk will be given each day to the undernourished children at school according to the amount of money available for each town.

The federal government will reimburse the town 100 per cent for milk will begin February 1 and will be continued probably for the next six months. Parents of all other children are urged to supply their children with milk for school use, since it has been found that the members of the Phoenicia Men's Club to attend the meeting of the Federation of Men's Clubs to be held on February 5 in the Municipal Auditorium, Kingston.

This will be a father and son gathering. The members of the club of both churches engaged in dart baseball, and the Phoenicia Men's Club was over their opponents in both games by a score of 3-2 and 14-8. At the conclusion of the games refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1582-B

Smart Peplum Frock of Cotton Print

Youthful looking frocks with crisp details is the trend for late spring and early summer. Squared necklines are an important style. Ruffles substitute for sleeves, and peplums give many a simple dress a touch of sophistication.

Nothing could be smarter for an extra frock of cotton print than the one pictured. A one-checked gingham which will be seen repeatedly. Later in the season, it is here used with organdy details.

Beginners will enjoy trying out this pattern on a smart summer print. It has simple lines that go together quickly. The peplum is a matter of choice. If you are planning two dresses you could omit it on one, and use it on the other. The butterfly bow could also be left off on a frock that you intend to wear for mornings. The right house-clothes have their own special rules, and one is that they be simple.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1582-B is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 42. Corresponding bust sizes 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 (34) requires about 2 1/4 yards of 36 inch material; 1/2 yard of contrast.

Tomorrow: Bloomer frock for tots from 2 to 5.

Even the one-piece dress is given that smart jacket effect for spring.
Laura Wilson

At the first mention of seeing the jacket, slipped in at the waist by a jacket dress comes into its own. It has a wide collar of print, lined and makes an ideal costume for spring when the topcoat is discarded. Keeping in mind this jacket idea, there are many one-piece dresses that simulate the two-piece or jacket effect.

Printed fabrics will make many of the new jacket dresses, while tulle accents in plaid, stripes and polka dot designs will trim the dresses of solid color.

The jacket dress above of brown and white print shows the fitted neck side.

More About Bridge

Chicago—It was contract bridge that doomed their romance from its inception. Mrs. Allen Blaser, 22, testified in Superior Court.

She and her husband, 31, quarreled from the nuptial date in 1929 until last Monday over bridge, she said, making six years in all. The quarrel terminated Monday when they separated.

Judge Rudolph F. Desort awarded her a divorce and custody of her year-old daughter.

"Fit and Run"

Boston—A "fit and run" thief had a new pair of shoes size eleven and a half.

Frank Kenney, salesman in a chain shoe store told police he fitted a young man for a pair of shoes and suggested that he walk around a bit in them. The man, still wearing the shoes, dashed out of the door and up the street without paying for them.

Anxious Client

Whitehall, Mich.—John Mahan, a professional diver from Muskegon, donned helmet and diving suit for a plunge through a hole in the ice to the bottom of White Lake.

An anxious client waited above on the lake's frozen surface. In a few minutes the diver reappeared and handed his client the object of the underwater search—a set of false teeth.

Those Smiths Again

Dallas, Tex.—There wasn't a Jones in sight, but the Smiths overran the place.

Most Important Glands

The glands about which most men know are the pituitary, which are at the base of the brain; the thyroid, at the base of the neck; the parathyroids, associated with the thyroid; the adrenal, on top of the kidneys; and the thymus, on the chest. These glands can function in normal fashion and the person then enjoys normal health, growth and intelligence; or they can fail to function properly in one of two ways. They can exhibit either more than normal or less than normal activity.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

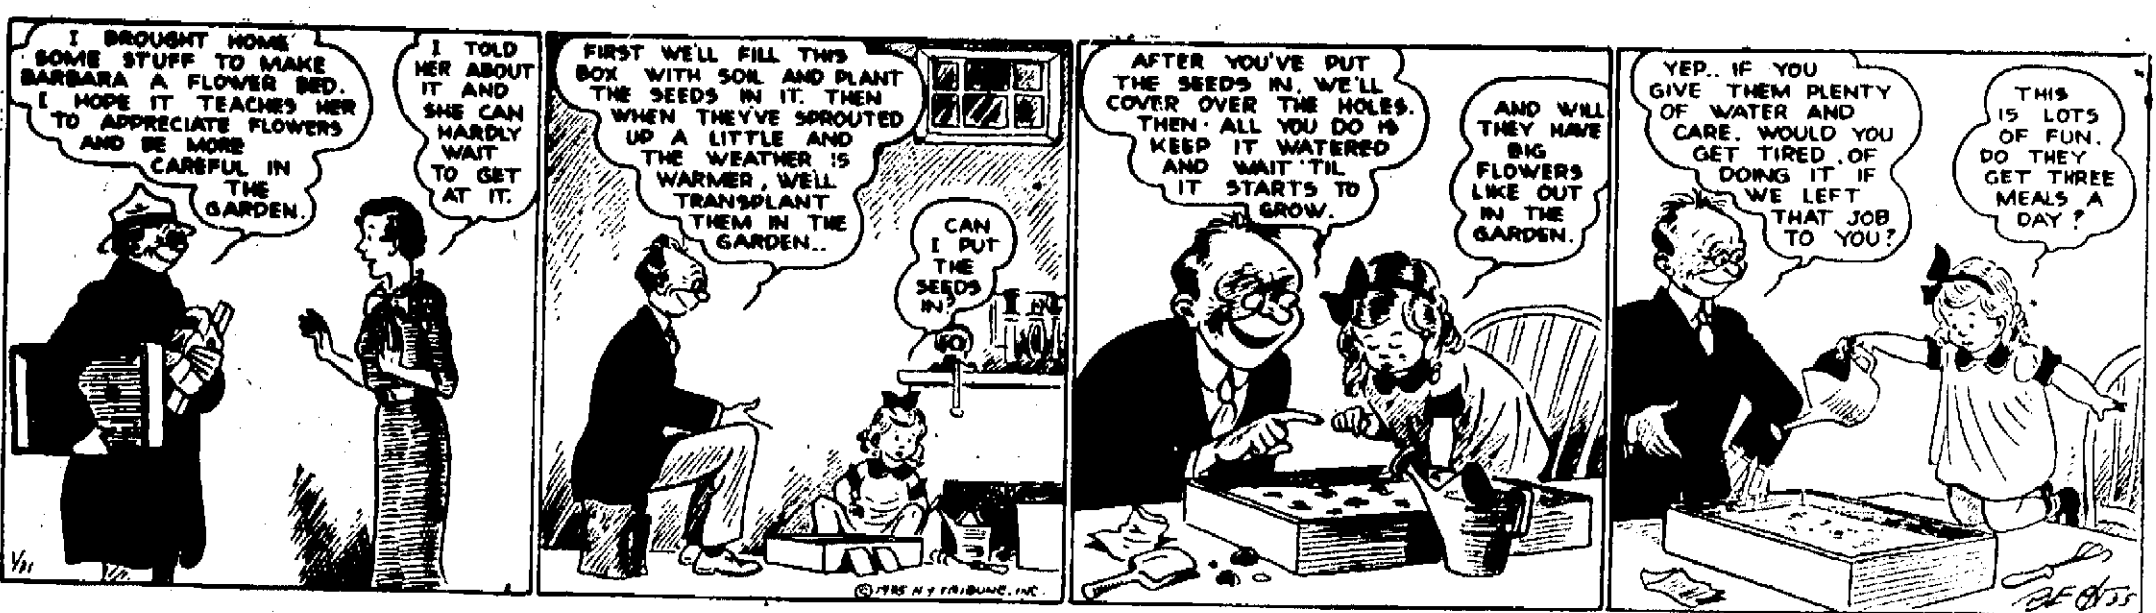

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if you must eat and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first cleanse the stomach, wash out of your stomach all liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestinal food, and then, by the action of the limestone phosphate, to cleanse, soothe and soothe the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headache, backache, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this water inside.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

Head of Horticultural Society Gives Talk

ments made in the marketing problem the past year. In addition to the Buffalo regional market there is now one in Albany, the latter farmer owned and controlled. A market in New York city will soon be ready. Assurance had been given that the so-called Hylan market, in the Bronx, would go into operation April 1 with dealer space all taken and adequate facilities for handling a very large part of the perishables received in the city by truck. Plans for a series of regional markets to extend across the state are going forward. It was stated. A further development, even as reasonably possible, would be the selling at these markets, at least in New York, of apples at auction, as is now done on a large scale in New York with oranges. The costs of auction selling at wholesale were said to be materially lower than at private sale in stores.

Railroads and Trucking.

On the question of transportation by truck or railroad, Mr. Howard said: "Transportation and trucking are nearly synonymous terms in this area. The effort to have trucking rates raised to rail rates permits and needs united opposition. We can well subscribe to the proposition that any regulation designed to render the motor truck less useful or to render it non-competitive with other forms of transportation, is economically unsound."

Problems Transcend State Boundaries
President Howard discussed at some length the proposition that the business problems of horticulture are increasingly in a phase where they transcend state boundaries. He saw the various horticultural organizations, especially those in the northwestern section, while maintaining their separate entities, inevitably pulled together for the mutual benefit of their members.

The speaker apparently does not favor the immense projects to dam the waters of the Columbia and Colorado rivers and use their waters for irrigation. He asked, "What need can there be for the enlargement of the Imperial Valley or the huge Grand Coulee territory? This dry land, when irrigated, is enormously productive." Referring to the hard times following the Civil War boom.

more or less comparable to our depression were, said the speaker, "augmented by continual opening of new lands in the west. Eastern farmers, in fact all farmers, were prostrated for 30 years, in the 18's and 20's by the influx of western grown products to eastern markets. Whether apples, vegetables, or even hay crops are grown on this new land, the effect will be felt by us." He recommended the transfer of irrigation projects from the Department of the Interior to the Department of Agriculture.

Advertising of Apples

The subject of advertising apples, said the speaker, is so new one before this society, adding, "One or two schemes have been tried and abandoned. We all know the difficulty." He said that as the result of a resolution passed at the Rochester meeting a group of members will explore the matter thoroughly this year, and try to work out a practicable means of advertising apples. Mr. Howard continued, "Here in the Hudson valley our thought on this subject included at one time only apples from the valley. Later the idea included New York state apples. It may be that a larger view is advisable, that a workable plan will advertise just apples and then the devil take the hindmost."

Sees Good Business Outlook

Speaking of recent years and the depression, Mr. Howard said, "Purchasing power continues to improve in spite of the severe unemployment situation. We are in a period of rising prices and the business outlook, if we may believe the new year prognostications, is the best in five years. At any rate a feeling of confidence prevails." A word of caution to fruit growers, suggested that more plentiful crops than last year could be expected, hence there will, in that case, not be the "disproportionate prices with reference to prices in general which were obtained for apples and some other fruits last fall and early winter."

The Shadow of AAA Control

In closing Mr. Howard said: "At this time last year plans of the AAA for control and curtailment of cotton, wheat and other crops were going forward and it was feared that such restrictions might in time be applied to fruits. In the interim Providence instead of Uncle Sam has taken a hand, and a heavy one, in our affairs, so that we now hope we are out from under that apprehension."

300 Attended Opening Session

There were about 350 present Wednesday morning at the opening session of the three days meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, being held at the new Armory. Especially considering the severe weather this was considered a fine attendance for the first morning session.

The greetings on behalf of the mayor of Kingston were given at the opening of the afternoon session yesterday. In the absence of Mayor Holsman, who was called to Albany on business connected with the legislative committee of the Mayor's Conference, the address of welcome was given by Corporation Counsel Matthew V. Cahill.

The morning session was called to order by Lawrence Howard of Kindershook, newly elected president of the society. Following the president's annual address, Secretary-Treasurer Roy P. McPherson, made his annual report. President Howard announced his committee appointments, following which P. J. Chapman and J. M. Hamilton reported on the results of research work in the Hudson River Valley on insect and disease problems.

The session closed with answers to questions of interest to members of the society. A list of 131 such questions is printed in the program of the meeting. An hour is set aside at the end of each session for the taking up of these questions in order. There is a general discussion of the problems brought up and experts are generally on hand to assist in settling them.

To many this "Question Box" period is one of the most interesting features of the daily program.

Discovered Drugs

For centuries, the natives of South America have used poisons derived from giant creepers in their tropical forests for their poisoned arrow tips. Strychnine, quinine and morphine have been extracted from these rare plants. Scientists hope to obtain cures for various diseases, perhaps tuberculosis and cancer among them, from these.

Congressional Probe Of Long's Rule Asked By Square Deal Group

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 31 (AP).—The Square Deal Association, bitter anti-Long organization, has appealed directly to President Roosevelt for a congressional investigation of conditions in Louisiana under Huey Long's dictatorship.

The plan was made on the eve of the scheduled resumption by Long of a court "inquiry" into what he charges was a plot to assassinate him.

The hearing, before an East Baton Rouge district judge, is due to be taken up Friday where Senator Long left off Saturday after presenting a witness who testified to a conspiracy against Long's life.

The congressional inquiry was requested by the Square Dealers through their executive committee and Lee O. Lester, vice president and acting head of the association.

The request charged an "absolute dictatorship exists in Louisiana depriving our people of their constitutional rights of suffrage and liberty and called on the President and congress to name a committee of nationally known men who are not political officeholders to study the situation in detail, to read all our late so-called laws, to ascertain for you how completely our people have been subjugated and to report back to you and to congress as quickly as possible."

The appeal was wired to President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrnes of the house. "Long's charge of an assassination plot," the appeal said, "is recognized by every thinking citizen in Louisiana as an attempt to intimidate by a frameup those who oppose him."

This sudden turn in the fight of the militant association against Senator Long followed publication of a telegram under the signature of Ernest J. Bourgeois, Square Deal president, calling on Louisianians to "come to Baton Rouge unarmed but individually determined that in the massed expression of your statements a cleanup will be reached in our government."

Louisiana's capital, meanwhile, remained under martial law with several hundred national guardsmen patrolling the city and East Baton Rouge Parish.

OLIVE BRIDGE

Olive Bridge, Jan. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Davis and children spent Sunday evening at the home of Albert Myers at Samsonville.

James Gordon and Nathan Trowbridge have returned from Florida.

On Monday evening the members of the "Comrade Class" of the M. E. Sunday School held its class meeting and social hour at the parsonage. Mrs. O. H. Lockett is their teacher.

Miss Ida Mae Davis was home over the week-end.

Marion E. Davis and her friend, Edgar Wilson, were at the home of her parents for the week-end.

Owing to the severe cold weather the Styles Brothers egg truck did not arrive until late afternoon on Monday.

A. J. Longyear, the Watkins salesman, made his business trip through this place on Tuesday.

Many of the high school students were home on Tuesday as it was registration day for freshmen.

Sunday evening was the coldest so far this winter, the thermometer registering 24 below and at some places 38 degrees below zero.

The severe weather conditions of last Sunday kept many from attending the services of the M. E. Church. However, the attendance of the children at Sunday school was about as usual. The pastor is desirous of conducting an adult Bible class and urges parents to accompany their children as often as possible.

The services next Sunday will be at the usual hours: Olive Bridge—Sunday school at 10:15; Mrs. Ezra Silkworth, superintendent, and the worship service at 11. Evening service at Samsonville at 7:30. The pastor's subject will be "Our Heavenly Alliance." On Monday evening, February 4, the regular monthly meeting of the official board of the Olive Bridge Church will be held at the parsonage at 7:30.

Heart of Log Boat

When the subject of pine wood is up for consideration for that new floor in an enclosed sunroom, a new breakfast nook, a kitchen, or a remodeled attic, it is well to keep in mind that the floor will possess more distinction, more the appearance of higher priced wood, if the lumber chosen is that from the heart of the log. In that sector the grain is harder and more vertical than in the outer log.

One little sip and the ordinary cough is eased—a few doses and the tough old hang-on cough is seldom heard again—it's really wonderful to watch how speedily hard, lingering colds are put out of business.

Right away that tightness begins to loosen up—the bronchial passages clear—your own toes again—happy and breathing easier.

SINUS TROUBLE LESS FREQUENT

Your druggist has a prescription that affords a healing stimulant that aids nature to keep sinus drainage clear.

This prescription, used by thousands, is known as SINASIPTEC.

Used as directed in the upper nasal passages, it reduces symptoms of fullness, pain and sneezing, and also reduces chances of more severe sinus trouble—your pharmacist knows this.

Sinasipitec is a splendid cleansing wash when nostrils are clogged with catarrh or filled with mucus resulting from common colds.—Adv.

Private Lives of Jurors As Seen at Flemington, One Fell Out of Bed

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 31 (AP).—The private lives of eight men and four women, segregated from the world to decide one man's fate, revolve about those immediate little commonplaces—a "smoke," food, a parlor game, a fall from bed.

To the Hauptmann jury the world has been circumscribed by little more than four walls.

Three of the women on the jury smoke. They complained vigorously one night when cigarettes were not passed around after dinner.

The biggest protest came from Mrs. Verna Snyder, No. 3 juror, who has turned to tobacco since beginning of the tedious trial existence. Mrs. Rosie Hill, the widow who does head work, is the only woman juror who refuses cigarettes.

Mrs. Snyder has just recovered from a recent minor accident—she fell out of bed two nights ago, after eating mince pie at dinner, and suffered minor bruises.

Mrs. Pearl Conover, one of the women constables, rushed into her room after hearing a noise and helped the No. 3 juror get back to bed.

Liscom Case, the carpenter on the jury, is still taking his meals in his room because of a heart ailment, which he thought was aggravated by climbing stairs.

Six of the other jurors have gone on a vegetarian diet at dinner, and instead of an entrée, order a vegetable or fruit salad. George Voorhees, one of the jurors, is still eating his steaks and chops.

The juror hardest to please at breakfast is Robert Cravatt, the only bachelor in the box. Cravatt, who is educational director of a CCC camp, insists on having his eggs broasted.

The jury passes long evening hours playing a parlor game with numbered cards and little wooden blocks. The game was presented to Sheriff John H. Curtiss by a Chicago woman who attended several sessions of the trial and worried about the jurors' entertainment.

Mrs. Snyder, wife of a blacksmith, has had emissaries buy her two new dresses since the trial began. One is black, with a round white collar and a perky bow, and the other is a gray print, with red roses on a blue ground.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the bowels with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cured with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, dull complexion caused by constipation.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, known by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with constipation and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two at bedtime for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

BRUNO GIVES ANNA LAST-MINUTE POINTERS

In a confident mood after having withstood the hours of grilling at the hands of Attorney General David T. Wilentz, Bruno Hauptmann is shown above as he offered his wife, Anna, last minute advice before she took the stand in his defense in his trial at Flemington, N. J., for the Lindbergh kidnap-murder. SAUGERTIES

Saugerties, Jan. 31.—Mr. Rollins, organ builder of Utica, spent Tuesday in this village making an inspection of the First Congregational church organ which was damaged by the recent fire in that building.

Odell F. Johnson of Market street was painfully hurt when he fell from a ladder while at the Little Sawyer Ice Company plant on Saturday. His left shoulder blade was broken in two places and a complete examination will be made as to whether he suffers any internal injuries. Lashers ambulance conveyed Mr. Johnson to the Benedictine Hospital where he is under the care of Dr. B. W. Clifford.

The local firemen were called to extinguish a fire at the residence of David Robinson on upper Elm street. A blow torch used in thawing out a drain pipe is said to have caused the damage which is covered by insurance.

Mrs. Myers, aged 83, who resides with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Myers on Barclay Heights had the misfortune to fall down stairs on Sunday morning. Dr. Lester Sonking is attending her.

The Little Sawyer Ice Company completed the harvesting of ice on Saturday afternoon on upper Maiden avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutgers I. Hurry of Barclay Heights have gone to New York city, and will later visit California where they will spend some time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hallenbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Lamb and Lyndon Hallenbeck of this village attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Clarence Smith in Catskill.

Mrs. Pauline Kincler, a noted designer of Paris, France, and Mrs. Ethel London of Jersey City, N. J., were recent guests of Mrs. Samuel Swirsky on Main street.

Miss Nancy Slater of Mt. Marion, a student in the local high school, suffered a frozen left ear on Monday morning. Miss Slater's car was attended by Whitaker of Albany, Davis Van Valkenburgh of Prattville and John Hill of Blue Mountain were arrested by State Troopers on Saturday for driving with improper lights. Justice George Ohler fined each $2, which they paid.

An inquest into the death of Edward Myers of Glasco, who was killed when struck by a car driven by Morris Schuster of Saugerties on January 6, will take place before Coroner Lesion B. DuBois of New Paltz at the county court house in Kingston Saturday morning.

Realtor John C. Sauer has been confined to his home on Market street the past few days on account of illness.

The Rev. William E. Mack is reported ill at his home in the Congregational parsonage on West Bridge street.

Charles McNally and son of Detroit, Mich., have been called here on account of the death of his mother.

The Misses Lillian and Alice Wolven of Elm street attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Clarence Smith in Catskill.

A bus will leave for Poughkeepsie High School game at Poughkeepsie Saturday evening. In order to provide transportation at least 30 names must be in by Thursday evening. Miss Kitty Robinson and Miss Vera Kelly are in charge of the buses.

Several cases of German measles have been reported in this place, and many places are reported to be having larger numbers.

The Jolly Junior Mission Band of the Reformed Church will meet in the basement of the church on Friday afternoon at 2:30.

General residents are being mentioned as possible candidates for the coming village election which is held in March, when the terms of five officials will expire.

'I DIDN'T DO BADLY, EH?'

Quite evidently pleased with the manner in which he had disposed himself during his many hours under grueling cross-examination, Bruno Hauptmann, on trial at Flemington, N. J., for the Lindbergh murder, is shown (center) in jubilant mood as he conversed with his lawyers, Edward J. Kelly (right) and Egbert Rosenkrantz (left) after leaving the witness stand. ADMITS BIGAMY CHARGE—DENIES MURDER

Stocky, dark-haired Ivan Poderjaysky (right), self-styled Yugoslavian "captain" and man of many amours, admitted when returned to the United States to face questioning he had bigamously married Agnes Tufverson (left), 43-year-old woman attorney of Detroit who disappeared shortly after the ceremony, but denied he had murdered her. Figuring in the pressing of charges against Poderjaysky are the woman-lawyer's two sisters, shown below, Selma (left) and Olive. Poderjaysky is shown (above center) as he was booked in New York court. (Associated Press Photos)

"Cat-Eye" Annie Faces New Charge Friday

Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 31 (P).—"Cat-Eye" Annie McDowell, notorious jewel thief who is several up on the late John Dillinger in the matter of extricating herself from "escape proof" jails, completes a 10-year sentence at the Bedford Hills, N. Y., women's prison tomorrow.

Officials of the state penitentiary here from which she twice fled, plan to return her on an indictment charging "unlawful escape from the state prison."

It was in Buffalo in 1925, shortly after she had been convicted of a $75,000 jewelry robbery, that "Cat Eye Annie" first made her mark that prison could not hold her. She slipped out of the Erie county penitentiary in the heart of the city only to be recaptured later in Kenmore.

A badly sprained ankle, suffered in a two story drop to the street, prevented her from getting further than suburban Kenmore where she was recaptured two days later in a half-constructed house.

Taken to Auburn she escaped again in 1926 by digging through the wall of her cell but this time her freedom was only for 26 hours. Her next break, in March, 1927, was accomplished by sawing the lock from her cell door and escaping from the prison in clothes stolen from the prison physician, Dr. Frank L. Heacock. Once again she was captured near the prison and returned to solitary confinement.

"Cat Eye Annie" has a peculiar cast in one eye which on several occasions has brought about her identification and proved her undelighting.

Her method of procedure in jewelry robberies was to secure a position as maid with forged credentials. After a housewife would feel she had the "perfect maid" in Lillian to discover about two weeks later that Lillian—and the jewels—had left the house.

She was captured in Milwaukee, Wis., in 1925 after she had applied for a job as maid and was brought to Buffalo where she was sentenced.

Reilly Resents Police Policy to Witnesses

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 31 (P).—Edward J. Reilly, chief of Bruno Hauptmann's counsel, expressed resentment today at "police tactics being used on my witnesses," and threatened to run the trial out to April 1 in retaliation for the state's severe cross examination.

"A half hour after Elvert Carlstrom began testifying yesterday police were at his home," Reilly asserted.

"The attorney general kept him on the stand at great length so that he might be thoroughly investigated by the police. They didn't get anything on him, but it doesn't seem quite fair."

The attorney general kept him on the stand at great length so that he might be thoroughly investigated by the police. They didn't get anything on him, but it doesn't seem quite fair."

Attorney General Wilentz's examination of Carlstrom, a Hauptmann alibi witness, drew from Reilly the statement:

"I am going to turn the witness stand over to the attorney general. But I am going to give him plenty to do. I'll have from 50 to 75 witnesses, instead of the few I have been planning to introduce, and I'll run this trial considerably longer than April first if necessary."

To this, Wilentz replied, "I'll be there to greet them."

Reilly said he understood that Henry Uhlig, who was to be one of the defense witnesses, was showing members of the Flack family, brought to this country from Germany at the expense of the state, the sights of New York.

Uhlig went to Germany with Isador Fisch in December, 1933. Fisch died early in 1934.

However, Reilly said he had no objection to Uhlig keeping company with the Flack family on Broadway expeditions.

"I still expect that he will come over and testify," he declared.

POLITICS at Random

DEVELOPMENTS at various points of the political compass are singling out Postmaster General Farley with increasing frequency as a storm center in the immediate future of the Roosevelt administration.

The slip over the Sinclair letter during last year's campaign, and the more recent incident of the rare stamps Farley handed out as souvenirs, represent only minor details of a complicated situation.

Within the circle of the President's democratic advisers there have been many murmurs about Farley's political activities, particularly in relation to federal patronage.

Among the insurgent republicans who have supported Mr. Roosevelt there is increasingly vocal protest because Farley continues to hold both the postmaster generalship and the chairmanship of the democratic national committee, months after the President himself publicly condemned the practice of party officials being also public officers.

Now that Norris of Nebraska, one of the most intrepid of the Roosevelt republicans, has begun to complain against what he calls "Farleyizing" the government, Washington is on the lookout for some real excitement.

Moffett Disappointed?

FRIENDS of James A. Moffett, the housing administrator, have heard without surprise that he plans soon to return to private life.

When he took charge of the housing campaign last summer, Moffett was one of the most optimistic of the "new deal" enthusiasts.

He predicted a great outpouring of capital and credit for home construction, and talked of putting 5,000,000 men to work. That would have meant the end of the unemployment crisis, possibly the end of federal relief.

Employment has increased somewhat in the building trades, and some new money has been put into construction. No exact figures are available, but no one contends the results have come up to Moffett's predictions.

Big business still hesitates, and

CCC Escapes Criticism

THE story is quite different down the street where Robert Fechner presides over the civilian conservation corps.

That was one "new deal" agency which made no appeal to private capital, and was in no wise dependent on popular support.

Some sneering accompanied its inauguration, and there have been a few troubles with local authorities here and there, but in the main it would be hard to think of any of the Roosevelt projects which has escaped with less open criticism.

The size of the corps shortly is to be doubled. Even then it will remain one of the most modest of the new deal ventures.

In the degree of pride which it engenders in the hearts of the Roosevelt followers, however, it is conceded a rank near the top.

8 Below Zero Here This Morning

Old King Winter blew his strongest wintry blast this morning at 7:30, sending the mercury down to eight below zero. Yesterday at the same time the thermometer at the city engineer's office at the city hall registered four below.

As the sun went higher in the sky, it offered some relief from the unwelcome cold snap, sending the mercury up to 4 below at 10:45. When the sun reached its zenith at 12 o'clock, The Freeman thermometer registered 7 above.

Ice in the Hudson river is about 12 inches thick, it was reported at the office of the Rhinebeck Ferry Company this morning. There are no prospects of the ferry resuming its trips, officials said.

The cold snap is of great inconvenience to automobile drivers, who find it difficult to keep their cars in condition to start easily. Last night's midnight temperature played havoc with some of the cars of those attending the President's birthday party at Golden Rule Inn. A number left their motors running during the affair to insure against freezing.

Legislature Action Asked on Cash Lending

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 30 (P).—The New York legislature was called upon today to enact legislation to curb the "serious and menacing social danger" which exists in the money-lending field.

The joint legislative committee on banks, headed by Senator Thomas F. Burchill, New York Democrat, reported that organizations and individuals, "by trick or device or sheer terrorism, are oppressing those unfortunate who have found it necessary to obtain small amounts of money for immediate needs."

To curb the activities, the committee recommended legislation to provide:

(1) Persons or corporations who engage in the business of lending money be brought under the supervision and inspection of the state banking department, making all forms or agreements used by them subject to the department's approval.

(2) No seizures or repossessions of automobiles be made except in the presence of and with the assistance of a police officer.

(3) No charge for insurance obtained for the benefit of the lender shall exceed the rates filed by the superintendent of insurance.

(4) No officer or employee of a company or corporation operating under this section of the banking law shall give to any borrower his own check or cash in exchange for the company check issued to borrower.

(5) In event that there is included in the finance charges of the sale of any automobile a reserve to be rebated to the dealer for the finance company, such a fact shall be made known to the purchaser.

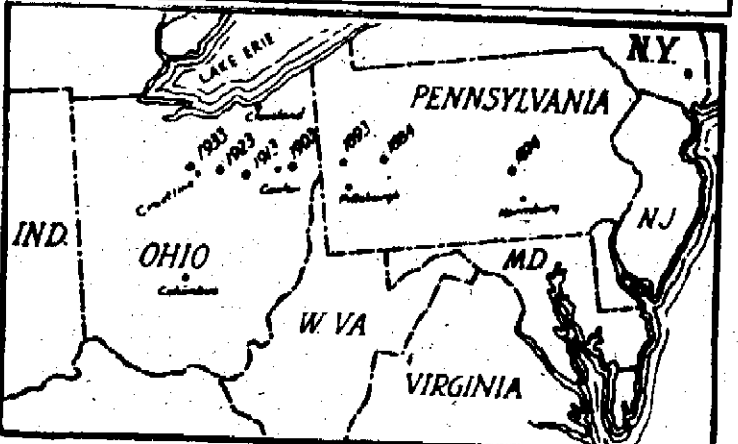

The committee asked further appropriations to continue its investigation of the affairs of the Prudence Company and other mortgage companies under supervision of the banking department, and to permit it to commence work upon a reconditioning of the banking law, last revised in 1909.

CENTER OF STEEL INDUSTRY MOVES WESTWARD ACROSS OHIO

Center of Capacity of the Steel Industry

THE geographic center of ingot capacity of the steel industry in the United States is in Crawford County, Ohio, north and west of Crestline, according to a calculation made by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Capacity for producing steel ingots by the Bessemer and open hearth processes is evenly distributed around this point, which is the center of gravity of the steel industry.

Since 1874, the earliest year for which the Institute finds records available, the center of the steel industry has moved steadily toward the West.

This westward movement of the center of the steel industry closely resembles a similar shift of the center of population of the country. Since 1870, the center of population has moved 190 miles to the west, from a point 45 miles east of Cincinnati to a location in Greene County in the Southwestern part of Indiana. The center of the steel industry, as reflected in ingot capacity has shifted more rapidly by traveling westward approximately 350 miles from its location in central Pennsylvania since 1874.

In 1923, the center of steel making capacity was in Ashland County, Ohio, near Haystack. In 1913, the center was in Wayne County between Orville and Apple Creek, Ohio.

Ohio was able to claim the geographic center of the industry in 1908 when the center moved to Columbiana County, near Millport and Lisbon, from its previous location in 1893 near Butler, Pennsylvania.

For 1884 and 1874, records of ingot capacity are not available, according to the Institute, but reports of actual production of steel ingots in those years place the 1884 center in Armstrong County, Pennsylvania, near the hamlet of Echo, not far from Kittanning. In 1874, the center of steel ingot production was close to Oriental in Juniata County, about 30 miles north and west of Harrisburg.

Alibi Witness Seeks To Shatter Evidence

The witness told Wilentz he fixed the time that he went to the Bronx bakery by the subway clock.

After visiting the bakery, Carlstrom said he went to Brooklyn about 1 a. m.

Q. What did you do there?

Carlstrom did not answer for a long time, and Wilentz asked if he understood the question.

Reilly interposed, suggesting that the witness might feel that it might incriminate him.

"Will your answer incriminate you," Wilentz asked.

"Yes," said Carlstrom and an answer was not required.

Q. You never said a word about Larsen yesterday?

A. Because you never asked me.

Q. And you never said anything about Larsen staying there or sleeping there?

A. I occupied the house.

Reminds The Record

Wilentz began reading yesterday's record to show that Carlstrom testified he lived alone in the house in Dunellen.

Q. The truth is that you never left Dunellen on any week day night, except the week-end?

A. I never left on week-ends. I left the night of March 1.

Q. Don't you remember you and Larsen both slept in that house the night of March 1?

A. No I don't.

Wilentz asked Carlstrom if he would believe it if the house owner, Christiansen, showed records to prove it.

"I don't think so," the witness said.

Q. Mr. Christiansen came out to Dunellen to take possession of the house in the end of March?

A. He came out in middle of April.

Q. Didn't Mr. Christiansen take you back to New York on April 2, 1932?

A. No.

Had Book of Records

Wilentz had Christiansen's book of records, but Reilly objected to having the witness refer to it.

Carlstrom asserted he "would believe my own testimony" rather than Christiansen's records.

Wilentz brought out front pages of a New York newspaper, bearing photographs of Hauptmann, taken at the time of the arrest.

Carlstrom said he did not recall seeing the pictures. If he did, he said, he did not recognize them as the man he saw in the bakery the night of March 1, 1932.

Glared at Larsen

At one pause in the questioning, Carlstrom glared at Arthur Larsen, the man who allegedly told the state he and Carlstrom slept in the same house in Dunellen on the night of March 1. It was the first time his placid expression had changed.

Wilentz ended his examination of Carlstrom and Reilly asked him about his duties at the Dunellen house.

The witness said it was his duty to live there and care for the fire. Larsen, he said, came to paint the inside of the house. The painter came to the house some time after he arrived and remained about a month. Larsen, he said, lived in the house.

Carlstrom explained that when he ordered a meal in broken English at the bakery Hauptmann laughed at him. He said he "got a good look at him" then.

The witness told Reilly he was "in the company of women" between 1 a. m. and 5 a. m. after he left the bakery.

Wilentz illustrated, in his chair, how Hauptmann probably sat in the bakery that night. The witness agreed that he saw him over his shoulder.

Wilentz brought from the witness that he had left the Christiansen house, unguarded that night.

"Playing hooky on your birthday?" Reilly asked. The witness nodded.

"You didn't play hooky on any other birthdays that year, did you?" asked Wilentz.

By-Play Ceases

The by-play between counsel ceased and Carlstrom was excused. Louis Kiss, a bald man, was the next defense witness called.

Q. Where do you live?

A. New York city.

Q. What's your occupation?

A. Silk painter.

Q. How long have you been in the United States?

A. In 1922.

Q. Where do you come from originally?

A. Hungary.

Spoke With Accent

The witness spoke with an accent which made him difficult to understand.

Kiss told of his various places of employment in New York city.

Q. On March 1, 1932, were you in Frederick's restaurant in the Bronx?

A. Yes, but I find out it was Frederick's last Sunday.

A. It was too late.

Q. But you said that was why you went up there that night?

A. Yes.

Saw Subway Clock

The witness told Wilentz he fixed the time that he went to the Bronx bakery by the subway clock.

After visiting the bakery, Carlstrom said he went to Brooklyn about 1 a. m.

Q. What did you do there?

Carlstrom did not answer for a long time, and Wilentz asked if he understood the question.

A. Yes, but I find out it was Frederick's last Sunday.

Q. And when you read the article about the dog, what did you do?

A. I jumped up and I said to my wife, "laughter."

Q. Never mind what you said to your wife. It was about the article in the paper?

A. Yes.

He then related how he notified Reilly.

In broken English, Kiss told of his appearance as a defense witness. He said he saw the story of the trial in the paper and went out last Sunday and called Reilly's Brooklyn office. He said he was told to report Monday at the office and on Tuesday he came to Flemington.

Got Lost in Subway

The witness told of getting lost during a subway trip to the Bronx March 1, 1932. He took a bus and finally got off to inquire his whereabouts.

"I found a man," he explained, "who told me where the subway station was."

Q. And where was that subway station?

A. 233rd.

"When I left the man I looked at my watch. It was 5:15. I saw this bakery lunch room on my way to the station, so I dropped in for a cup of coffee," the silk artist went on.

Q. What time did you arrive in the bakery?

A. About 5:15.

Q. Who waited on you?

A. A lady.

Man With a Dog

Kiss told of a man entering with a police dog.

Q. What happened?

A. The lady came from serving the coffee and the man said in German to her "somebody wanted to take the dog away."

Q. You got a good look at the man?

A. Yes.

Q. The restaurant was well lighted?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you see the man in the court room?

A. Yes.

Kiss stood up and with long arm pointed at Hauptmann.

Q. The defendant?

A. Yes.

Lindbergh and Col. Breckinridge both were regarding the witness carefully as he proceeded. The jury gave him more attention than it had Carlstrom, and Hauptmann appeared interested.

Kiss, prompted by Reilly's questions, said he connected the man, the dog and the incident with Hauptmann after seeing his trial pictures in the newspapers.

Connects Incident

The witness said he connected the bakery incident with Hauptmann also from the radio report of the kidnapping, March 1.

Reilly concluded with Kiss, bringing out that he was not connected with Hauptmann nor related to "anyone in the court room."

Direct examination concluded and a 5 minute recess was taken at 11:16 a. m.

At the side bar conference before today's session started, it was learned, defense counsel complained of quotations in morning newspapers from prosecution counsel that statements of defense witnesses would be investigated for possible perjury.

Justice Trenchard advised them to submit affidavits of any irregularities if they chose. No immediate action was taken.

Court resumed at 11:28 and the state took Kiss for cross examination.

Wilentz Questions

Attorney General Wilentz conducted the questioning.

Q. So when you saw the dog you recognized the man?

A. I looked up and recognized the man.

Q. But because of the dog?

A. Yes, and because he spoke in German.

Q. When you saw the pictures in 1934 you didn't recall that was the man?

A. No. It didn't come to me.

Tells of His Career

Kiss recounted for Wilentz his career in the United States after arriving in 1922. He said he worked as a bus boy while living in Yorkville in 1924. He was a chauffeur at Cedarhurst seven months and went back to New York in 1935.

As Kiss continued his recital through the succeeding years, Captain John J. Lamb, of the New Jersey State Police, recorded every address given, for checking the witness' story.

Wilentz then had the witness relate in detail the various employments he held since he has been in this country. Kiss showed excellent memory, reciting off street addresses, the names of numerous employers, the exact duration of each job, whether it was a few days or few months, and other data.

Only once did he falter when he was telling of a bath studio he had "at 63rd street and Eighth avenue."

Wilentz asked if Kiss were sure there was such a corner in New York at 63rd street and 8th avenue. The witness said he wasn't sure whether it was Eighth or Ninth avenue, although he lived, worked and received mail at the studio for a year.

This questioning went on over the silk painter's testimony that exactly one week before the Lindbergh kidnapping he had taken his sick seven-year-old son to the hospital.

Q. Sure of that?

A. Positive.

Q. You couldn't be mistaken?

A. No.

Q. You'll stand on that statement?

A. Positive.

Wilentz asked him details on the hospitalization of his boy on February 22, 1932, the name of the doctor and the departure from his home.

Wilentz read Kiss his previous testimony that he took his boy to the hospital "straightly one week" before the kidnapping.

"One week exactly is the 22nd of February," Wilentz said to the witness.

Fisher interrupted to point that 1 a. m. in the morning, when the boy was taken to the hospital, would be the 23rd of February.

Wilentz suggested that Kiss' testimony be accepted as he gave it.

Kiss told of making "rum" from alcohol and favoring. He said he was taking two pints to a friend in the Bronx when he got lost the night of March first.

Paid For Rum

Q. Did you give this rum you made to friends just as a charitable?

A. Oh no, no, they paid.

Q. How much did you sell it for?

A. $1.25 a pint.

Q. Well this rum making was a business you never told us about before?

A. I made it for mine self.

Q. And you sold it too?

A. Just to mine friends.

Q. Didn't you know it was against the law to make rum in 1932?

A. Yes.

The witness shrugged and spread his hands expressively.

Q. Was it good rum?

A. Yes.

Kiss said he made the rum by mixing straight alcohol with rum favoring. He had been making and selling it to friends for a couple of years.

The delivery of rum was about 9 p. m., Kiss said, after leaving the restaurant.

Kiss said he had not been drinking his "rum" that night.

"I drink rum in the morning," he explained. "Sometimes wine, sometimes beer in the evening."

Memory Hazy Again

Kiss' memory, for the second time, became hazy as Wilentz pursued the rum sale questions. The witness said he could not recall whether the delivery of the two pints was the first or second to the customer in the Bronx.

Wilentz asked him to describe the East Side route to the Bronx and he said he could not remember.

Kiss developed a complete lack of memory on rum deliveries before and after the bakery incident, March 1, 1932.

During the quiet badgering of the witness, Hauptmann sat forward in his chair, hand on chin, listening intently.

Fisher objected to Wilentz's question: "So it was shortly before midnight, February 27, that you took your boy to the hospital?"

A delay for examination of the record followed.

Wilentz released the witness and Reilly asked him when he called a doctor. Kiss said "about midnight."

Reilly asked that the record, which stated the call was made at 9 p. m., be corrected. Justice Trenchard declined, saying "you may question the witness."

Kiss said the departure for the hospital occurred at 1 a. m. on February 23.

Wilentz asked a few questions on the return trip from the Bronx rum delivery and released the witness. He was excused and the noon recess was called at 12:27 p. m.

Not Guilty, Says Baack

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—William F. Baack, 56, of Hawthorne, N. Baack was indicted last Friday by the county grand jury which has been investigating mortgage companies, surrendered at the district attorney's office. He was released in bail of $5,000 by general sessions Judge George L. Donnellan. The incident charges that while Baack was an official of the Lawyers' Company section 662 of the penal law relative to the fraudulent issuing of stocks and bonds was violated by the company.

Destroying Wildcat Distilleries

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 31 (AP)—Scores of central New York wildcat distilleries have been secretly dismantled since the probe of alcohol deaths in the area began. Col. L. G. Nutt, in charge of the Syracuse alcohol tax unit, said today: "We have them on the run and they are scrambling to cover like rats." He added: "Federal agents assigned to Utica and Gloversville during the poison liquor investigation reported to Colonel Nutt that even the small 'wash boiler' and 'tea kettle' stills set up in homes to turn out a gallon or two a day are disappearing."

Hyde Park Parley Brought Pressure On Navy in Ship Deals

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—Opinion that "political pressure" applied on the navy after a conference at Hyde Park had brought naval shipbuilding contact awards in 1933 at greatly increased prices was given the Senate munitions committee today by Laurence R. Wilder, a shipbuilder.

"The awards were made exactly as bid," Wilder testified, referring to previous assertions that the "Big Three" companies had asked about $13,000,000 each for building cruisers although one of the companies previously had undertaken construction of one of the craft at $8,300,000.

Wilder, stalwart six-foot chairman of the Board of Gulf Industries of Pensacola, declared he had heard the navy protested the award.

A conference was held July 29, he said he was informed, at which representatives of the "big three" and the secretary of the navy discussed the bids on a 27 ship program.

Subsequently he said, two admirals, S. M. Robinson and Emory S. Land, went to Hyde Park.

On August 3, 1933, after the visit to Hyde Park, Wilder continued, the awards were made.

"The awards were made exactly as bid, no reduction," Wilder declared, rising to his feet to emphasize his statement.

That declaration that he had offered the prices of a "fixer to get naval building jobs for ship yards" for a consideration was made by Axel B. Graven, slender, pale faced and wearing spats, testified in a voice emphatic and filled with emotion.

"I did not," he said, in reply to a committee question whether he had offered the services of a "fixer" to Wilder to get him naval shipbuilding contracts for his gulf industries which the company had failed to get by regular bidding.

Wilder testified yesterday such a proposition had been made him by Graven on behalf of the "fixer."

"I feel the navy is in a vice controlled by these three yards," Wilder declared, listing the New York Shipbuilding Company, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company.

"How do they apply this force?" Senator Bone (D-Wash.), asked.

Wilder then said an official of the Electric Boat Company had threatened to have a Commander Welsh removed from his post at the company's yards if he refused to approve certain boats sought by the navy.

Graven later said Homer was a naval architect, with a distinguished war record, having been an advisor of the British admiralty as well as long connected with the shipbuilding industry in this country.

Homer was in the committee room but was not called to testify due to a warning from his physician, that it "would endanger his life" because of blood pressure.

Parley Interrupts

Fisher interrupted to point that 1 a. m. in the morning, when the boy was taken to the hospital, would be the 23rd of February.

Wilentz suggested that Kiss' testimony be accepted as he gave it.

Kiss told of making "rum" from alcohol and favoring. He said he was taking two pints to a friend in the Bronx when he got lost the night of March first.

Paid For Rum

Q. Did you give this rum you made to friends just as a charitable?

A. Oh no, no, they paid.

Q. How much did you sell it for?

A. $1.25 a pint.

Q. Well this rum making was a business you never told us about before?

A. I made it for mine self.

Q. And you sold it too?

A. Just to mine friends.

Q. Didn't you know it was against the law to make rum in 1932?

A. Yes.

Shrugs Shoulders

The witness shrugged and spread his hands expressively.

Q. Was it good rum?

A. Yes.

Kiss said he made the rum by mixing straight alcohol with rum favoring. He had been making and selling it to friends for a couple of years.

The delivery of rum was about 9 p. m., Kiss said, after leaving the restaurant.

Kiss said he had not been drinking his "rum" that night.

"I drink rum in the morning," he explained. "Sometimes wine, sometimes beer in the evening."

Memory Hazy Again

Kiss' memory, for the second time, became hazy as Wilentz pursued the rum sale questions. The witness said he could not recall whether the delivery of the two pints was the first or second to the customer in the Bronx.

Wilentz asked him to describe the East Side route to the Bronx and he said he could not remember.

Kiss developed a complete lack of memory on rum deliveries before and after the bakery incident, March 1, 1932.

During the quiet badgering of the witness, Hauptmann sat forward in his chair, hand on chin, listening intently.

Fisher objected to Wilentz's question: "So it was shortly before midnight, February 27, that you took your boy to the hospital?"

A delay for examination of the record followed.

Wilentz released the witness and Reilly asked him when he called a doctor. Kiss said "about midnight."

Reilly asked that the record, which stated the call was made at 9 p. m., be corrected. Justice Trenchard declined, saying "you may question the witness."

Kiss said the departure for the hospital occurred at 1 a. m. on February 23.

Wilentz asked a few questions on the return trip from the Bronx rum delivery and released the witness. He was excused and the noon recess was called at 12:27 p. m.

Not Guilty, Says Baack

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—William F. Baack, 56, of Hawthorne, N. Y., one-time vice-president of the Lawyers' Title and Trust Company, pleaded not guilty late yesterday to an incident charging him with felony. Baack was indicted last Friday by the county grand jury which has been investigating mortgage companies, surrendered at the district attorney's office. He was released in bail of $5,000 by general sessions Judge George L. Donnellan. The incident charges that while Baack was an official of the Lawyers' Company section 662 of the penal law relative to the fraudulent issuing of stocks and bonds was violated by the company.

President Submits Report on Aviation

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—A series of recommendations designed to maintain for the United States a "position of world leadership" in aeronautics was submitted to Congress today by President Roosevelt.

The proposals, by the aviation commission headed by Clark Howell, Atlanta newspaper publisher, were accompanied by a message from the President outlining plans for consolidating federal supervision over all forms of transportation.

A suggestion by the commission that a temporary board be established to regulate aviation pending completion of a detailed program to include land and water transportation was rejected by the President.

He agreed with its proposal, however, to turn over regulation of air mail contract rates to the Interstate Commerce commission until Congress enacts permanent legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt stipulated, however, that he expected the Interstate Commerce commission to guard "against unreasonable profits by any private carrier."

Proposals by the Howell Commission included that the United States meet the competition of speedy foreign liners in the north Atlantic passenger service with government-built but privately-operated dirigibles.

Calling for unification rather than multiplication of government agencies, the President in dismissing the proposal for a new air commission said:

"In the granting of powers and duties by the Congress orderly government calls for the administration of executive functions by those administrative departments or agencies which have functioned satisfactorily in the past and on the other hand calls for the besting of judicial functions in agencies already accustomed to such powers."

He said he would submit detailed recommendations later relating to railroad, highway and waterway transportation. He intends to combine air supervision in the proposed unified transportation agency.

3 Armed Bandits Rob Bank At New Paltz

was stated that the car was dark, either a dark blue or black.

All-Night Patrol

Despite the sub zero weather troopers kept their vigil over the roads of the county all night. Patrols were posted at Benton's Corners, at the Kerhonkson intersection, near High Falls, on roads leading into Newburgh. Troopers from this section on patrol during the night included Sergeants Cunningham, Lockhart, Hopkins, Corporal Baker and Troopers Senecal, McLenahan, Seymour, Dalrymple, Metzger and Reilly.

Sheriff Saxo, with a force of deputies, also remained on duty all night, ready for any possible emergency.

Descriptions of Bandits

Descriptions of two of the bandits as given to the sheriff's office Wednesday afternoon, said that one of the men was "About five feet, eight inches tall, 45 years of age, reddish complexion, full face, dark gray suit, gray hat." The other was said to be about "five feet, six inches in height, 35 years of age, dark complexion, Italian, dark suit." They wore no masks.

Money Taken

The money taken, according to a list furnished by the bank employees, included $2,000 in $50 and $100 bills, $5,000 in $20's, $2,500 in $10's, $5,250 in $5's and $2,200 in ones.

From information received since the robbery there seems to be no question but that the bandit car was seen near the bank several times on the day preceding the hold-up. An employee in one of the stores nearby is reported as saying that he noticed the car, was inclined to be suspicious of it and that it had license plates from outside New York state. He was not sure as to whether the car was New Jersey or Massachusetts license, nor did he obtain the number.

Planned For Tuesday

It is also thought the robbery may have been planned for Tuesday, but that the bandits were led to give up their plans for that day when they saw Corporal Baker and the State Troopers in the neighborhood.

The Savings Bank is so located as to make it comparatively easy for a successful robbery such as that of Wednesday's. The three story brick building which houses the bank is situated toward the southern end of Main street, near the top of the slope that leads down to the Wallkill Valley tracks and station. It is out of the main business section and some distance from the main intersection of village streets and traffic in that quarter is much less than in some other parts of the village.

Sustains No Loss

President Grimm stated this morning that the bank sustains no loss by reason of the robbery, since it is fully protected by insurance.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—The stock market found a few more friends today and prices, generally, showed a disposition to firm moderately. While there was no rush to buy leading equities, the feeling in the boardrooms seemed to be a bit more bullish than in recent sessions. Aircraft and steel issues met support and even the lately depressed rails acted as though they were groping for higher levels.

Shares up fractionally to around a point included U. S. Puzzled Over Malady

Teaneck, N. J., Jan. 31 (AP)—Physicians worked feverishly today to determine the nature of a strange disease which has killed 9 infant patients of the Holy Name Hospital maternity department within ten days. Death hung over a tenth victim whose condition was described as "critical." In all, 20 babies have been stricken by the strange malady though their mothers escaped infection. Eight deaths between Monday and Saturday of last week forced sudden closing of the obstetrical department though health officials resolved both the hospital and the milk supply. The ninth victim, Eugene Florella of Ridgefield Park, died yesterday at his home.

Flat of the Law

Mt. Holly, N. J., Jan. 31 (AP)—A righteous flat sometimes is the best "law" for a wifebeater. Recorder William H. Grady decided and promptly put his decision into effect on John Senski, 30, a laborer. Senski, who weighs 180 pounds, was brought before the recorder on a charge of beating his wife, Elizabeth. When Grady asked if he had beat his wife, Senski replied: "Sure, she needed a licking." "Oh, she did, did she? Well, so do you." With that, Grady stepped from behind his desk and sent an uppercut to Senski's jaw. Three times Senski was knocked down, and finally assured the judge "that's all I want." Then Grady discharged him.

Fiermontes Reconciled

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—Once again all is well with Enzo Fiermonte, the Lido Adonis, and Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor Dick Fiermonte. The handsome Italian prize fighter and the widow of John Jacob Astor today are "second" honeymooning today on a liner in mid-Atlantic after an estrangement of several months that threatened to wreck their international romance. Fiermontes sailed Saturday on the liner Roma for Europe. Not long after the sailing it was learned that Mrs. Fiermonte, without a ticket, had boarded the boat at the last minute and purchased passage from the steward.

Unusual Entertainment

Old women witches flourishing human skulls and thigh bones and thumping on these gruesome objects while rolling their eyes wildly and apparently going into hysterical trances. Male sorcerers and priestesses, lead of tracing cabalistic designs before strange altars or making lob-sided crosses, morning, noon and night in front of doorways. Always the mysterious, monotonous beating of native drums. Such are some of the fantastic things described by the adventurer while exploring a wild and mountainous district of Haiti, southeast of the Gulf of Mexico.

A Stockholm physician reports finding cases of nicotine poisoning among waitresses who do not themselves use tobacco in any form. The restaurant patrons do the smoking.

QUEER TRANSPORTS STILL IN BUSINESS

In Odd Contrast With Modern Speedy Traffic.

Washington. — Record-breaking streamliner trains and giant airliners have recently been news sensations in America; Italy is still applauding an air-minded man who sped through the air more than 400 miles an hour a short time ago; and Great Britain is just quieting down after celebrating the victory of two of her flyers who won the London-to-Melbourne air race.

Modern transportation, this. But one can still find types of transport facilities, even in the world's largest cities and their rural neighborhoods, that were in use decades and even centuries ago.

"Cabbies" Still Available.

"There is not a sizable town in the United States in which one cannot hail a taxi, and in many of them charter a plane; yet the top-hatted cabbie, whose pompous figure held away over traffic on boulevards in the gay nineties, has not been entirely shelved," says the National Geographic society. "These taxicabs of another era have been jealously watched as new traffic lights have been installed, traffic lanes have been painted to keep modern motorists from crushing bumpers and fenders, and streets have been widened and trees sacrificed to make room for more of their rivals; yet they still constitute something of a traffic problem."

"With a sight of concrete, 40-mile-an-hour highways, and less than a hundred miles from Washington, D.C., and Annapolis, Md., ox-drawn vehicles still lumber along; while in the isolated mountain regions of the West, sure-footed burros and pack mules continue to be the only companions of many rugged prospectors."

"Millions of visitors arrive at Atlantic City by automobile, airplane and train; yet to see the 'sights' along the boardwalk, they hire three-wheeled rolling chairs. Others arrive at Bermuda aboard palatial steamships but take to bicycles to tour the island."

"On the corners of modern, wide thoroughfares of Shanghai, Hong Kong and Canton, China, the traveler hails a riksha and wears perilously through a maze of motor and pedestrian traffic. In the alleys-like back streets of the native towns, however, he may prefer a sedan chair to avoid jostling men and women and stumbling over children to whom these mere byways are playgrounds."

Even Wheelbarrows.

"What traveler leaves Durban, Natal, without employing a Zulu rikshaman? The dark-skinned tribesman in gay-feathered headdress and scant clothing, is one of the colorful features of the South African city. In remote Szechwan province, China, wheelbarrows, which are the local transports, have worn ruts in flagstone pavements; in Sumatra, if one goes native, he must travel in a buffalo-drawn cart whose slatted bed is shaped like a swabbed horse, pointed at each end. In Palermo, Sicily, the purely Sicilian way to get about town is by native cart, a two-wheeled vehicle on whose side panels are gayly depicted Bible scenes and Sicilian panoramas; and in Ireland, the Irish jaunting car, on which passengers sit back to back and face outward lends atmosphere to a tour of the Emerald Isle."

Say Novice Easily Can Handle Novel Airplane

Boston, Mass.—Here's another step in the search for a foolproof airplane. It's a novel craft being built in Boston university's department of aeronautics with the collaboration of Lieut. Arthur G. B. Metcalf.

The new plane will be able to land in little more than half the distance needed by an ordinary plane, according to Lieutenant Metcalf.

It will be flown as easily by a novice as a skilled pilot flies a conventional plane. It is expected that a single afternoon will be enough to teach a beginner to handle the new ship with perfect safety.

"This new plane will entirely eliminate the need for a highly developed sense of co-ordination and flying instinct," says the lieutenant. "This new development will not detract from the efficiency or speed of the plane."

Museum Sward Identified as That of Joan of Arc

Dijon, France.—The ancient art of divining, known under its scientific term of radiesthesia, has identified an old sword in the Dijon museum as the blade of Joan of Arc.

A French woman diviner, using a scientific position over the preserved signature of Joan of Arc and then over the sword, obtained the same radiesthesia—according to her, that Joan's sword brought her to her death.

Liked Soccer Most

In the early days soccer was not so popular as that of football, or even the old-fashioned games, but it was greatly relished by children and young men. The river is large and no wonder so that of children or young men.

A Lady Short

By WILLIAM DE LISLE

THEY both behaved splendidly. No body in the room could guess that the introduction was not that of two strangers.

He wondered as he drank his soup what could have brought her to this house; what she could possibly have in common with fat, vulgar Mrs. Bowman, their hostess. He eyed her askance, and thought of the first time they had been sent in to dinner together. Fifteen months before. Then she had been friendly; now she scorned him. Well, he would scorn her too. He would show her how little he cared.

"I heard someone say this morning that you were engaged," he said, turning to her. "May I congratulate you?"

She shot him a hostile glance. "It is not true. Once is enough." She broke off; then continued frigidly. "My fortunate escape from what would undoubtedly have been an unhappy marriage naturally prejudices me against matrimony."

There was a silence. Finally he said reproachfully: "You haven't asked after Aunt Laura."

"How is Miss Glendon?"

"Very well, thank you. She's never had another attack since that one. Strange, isn't it? If she hadn't been ill we wouldn't have quarreled, and we'd have been married by now."

Aunt Laura lived alone on her beautiful place in Maine in close proximity to some splendid trout fishing and a good golf course. When she heard of the engagement she wrote and asked them down for a visit. They jumped at it. They meant to fish in the morning, play golf in the afternoon, and take long moonlight rides in the evening. But nothing happened as they had expected. It was raining when they arrived, and Aunt Laura, complaining of a chill, went to bed.

But the rain, the confinement, and the prolonged tete-a-tete got on their nerves. What led to the explosion neither could say now, but the engagement terminated at precisely thirty-three. Shortly afterward he had been sent abroad by his firm, had now just returned, and had never seen nor heard of her (Mrs. Bowman introduced them before dinner.

"Perhaps," she said presently, "I ought to congratulate you."

"It would be premature," he confessed. "Though I must admit an announcement is not far off."

The conversation lapsed again. He studied her.

Their eyes met. He said hastily. "Have you dined here before?"

"No."

"How did Mrs. Bowman manage to rope you in?"

A faint blush dyed her cheeks. "It comes to that, how did Mr. Bowman rope you in?"

"He's one of our best clients. But I had no idea"—his voice dropped to a whisper—"I would meet a gang like this. I repeat—how did Mrs. Bowman ever get you to come?"

"I happened to have no other engagements."

"Well, of course, it's none of my business. Let's change the subject. How's your austere guardian, Mr. Hopkins?"

She flushed. "He is abroad," she said, turning slightly away from him. For a moment neither of them spoke. Then.

"Do you know," he said suddenly, "that your Mr. Hopkins had a lot to do with our engagement going on the rocks?"

She was genuinely surprised. "How could he?"

"You remember I saw him the day before we went to Aunt Laura's? Well, he implied that I was after your money. That was really what started it. I began the visit in a bad temper."

But she had risen. He watched her going out with the other woman—a swan among a brood of waddling geese. And again he wondered what she could be doing in that house. He moved toward Mr. Bowman.

"Mr. Bowman," he began, "the girl I took in—Miss Dodd—"

"Far, I'm sorry about that," Mr. Bowman interrupted. "It's the wife's fault. She got you mixed up with Mr. Geetz and gave him your lady. Miss Miller. Then we were a lady short, so she called in Miss Dodd, our governess."

Changing Constantinople to the Name of Istanbul

In 1880 the new republic of Turkey began to insist that the official Turkish name be used for the city founded in 325 A. D. by Constantine the Great, and to require that mail sent to residents of the city be addressed Istanbul instead of Constantinople.

Two years after Constantine founded the city he made it the seat of the Roman empire in the East and officially named it New Rome to indicate its political position. But it was popularly called Constantinople to perpetuate the fame of its founder. After the capture of the city in 1453 by the Turks it became the capital of the Ottoman empire.

Constantinople is really a collection of towns and villages lying on both sides of the Golden Horn and along the Bosphorus. There are four general sections, however, consisting of Eryp, Istanbul (the Greek section south of the Horn on the site of old Byzantium), Galata (the chief business center and seaport on the Horn) and Scutari.

Foreigners have always called the entire city Constantinople, while the Turks called it Istanbul, a name which outsiders applied to the typically Turkish section, which is bounded on the west by the Sea of Marmora, on the east by the Golden Horn, and on the south by the ancient city walls. The name Istanbul is the Turkish form of Constantinople. It is derived from the Greek and literally means "Into the city."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Oratorio and Opera Both Were Started in Italy

An oratorio is a sacred story set to music which, like opera, requires soloists, chorus and full orchestra for its performance, but dispenses with the theatrical adjuncts of scenery, costumes and acting. The modern oratorio and opera both were originated in Italy, about 1600, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, and were originally indistinguishable from each other, except that one was sacred and the other secular in subject. However, before 1700, particularly in Germany, the oratorio began to be clearly differentiated from the opera, in the relinquishment of dramatic action and accessories, and came to belong essentially to the class of concert music, with more or less of the qualities of church music. The true oratorio style has been developed more remarkably in Germany and England rather than France or Italy.

The first and almost universal subject for oratorios was the Passion and the greatest music is that of Bach's "Passion According to St. Matthew," written for service on Good Friday, 1726. In England the works of Handel treated epics as subjects for oratorios.

Inhabitants of Pitcairn Island

Pitcairn Island is a solitary island in the Pacific ocean, between Australia and South America. In 25 degrees 5 minutes south latitude and 130 degrees 5 minutes west longitude. It is about 2 miles long and 1 mile broad. It was discovered by Carteret in 1767. In 1790 it was taken possession of by nine of the mutineers of H. M. S. Bounty with six Tahitian men and a dozen women; the ring-leader being called Christian. Of nine British sailors, only one, Adams, was left in 1800, and from him the present inhabitants are descended. The island was annexed to Britain in 1839. Nearly 200 of the islanders were transferred to Norfolk Island in 1856, but a number of them afterward returned.

Shoes From Shark Skins

There are 500 kinds of sharks in the world, but the skin from only three species are used principally, to provide leather for making shoes. These are the Arctic, the tropical and the silk shark, the latter being caught off the Portuguese coast. Shoes made from the Arctic shark have a woolly appearance, and are useful on the golf course.

Women's shoes are made from the silk shark and one of its most popular uses is for handbags. Sharks are caught in large fish-nets about 200 yards long, and six yards deep.

Bones May Verify Legend

Unearthing of 12 skeletons of unusually tall men at the spot of Rocaveres, France, where legend says Roland and his fearless knights made their last stand against the Moors in 778, may substantiate the story. Historians declare the find proves that the traditional French hero really made his gallant fight. The discoveries were made during preparations for the erection of a monument to Roland on the summit of Ibañeta in the Pyrenees.

"Pillory" is a Church

Failure to attend church was punishable in England by imprisonment at one time, and at the church of Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Leicestershire, there is evidence that people who attended had to behave themselves. In the gallery is a finger "pillory." Here naughty boys and girls, as well as those who attempted to leave before the sermon, were detained until the end of the service.

Damage by Landslides

Landslides often cause considerable damage. A record-breaking one occurred in the Vale of Glouan, Switzerland, in 1906 when Mount Ruff suddenly came tumbling down and, within a few minutes, not only killed several hundred persons but buried five towns and spread huge masses of rock over 20 square miles.—Freling Foster, in Collier's Weekly.

Coot Not Member of Duck Family; Called "Mud Hen"

The term "mud hen" is a nickname for the coot or similar water fowl. The coot, Fulica americana, is a bird of the family Ardeidae and the shores of shallow lakes and ponds where marsh plants grow abundantly. The coot is half webbed, an excellent arrangement for running on water when the wings lend their assistance. The coot never rises on the wing without a preliminary run on the water of from 50 to 150 feet.

The coot swims and dives quite well, but as a rule it prefers to live, as do the rails and gallinules (to which the term "mud hen" is also applied), in the edges of heavy marsh vegetation. Here it can pick up its living of buds, blossoms, seeds, aquatic insects and snails, and also hide from its enemies.

The coot is not a member of the duck family, but belongs to the rail family. Rail-like and the order Gruiformes, or crane-like birds.

Vinegar Acidity

In vinegar making, the higher the sugar content of the apple or cider, the greater is the acidity of the vinegar. But "sweet" apples don't always make the best vinegar. It is explained that "sweet" apples are not necessarily sweet because they contain more sugar; often, sweetness indicates a lack of natural fruit acid.

Kingston Swamps Jewels, 48-18 Kurtyka and Shimek Lead Attack

The Kingston Legionnaires completely baffled and humbled the sensational Brooklyn Jewels, American League first half champions, last night at the Municipal Auditorium by the convincing score of 48 to 18.

With "Hawk" Kurtyka and Frank Shimek leading the attack, the Legion boys outclassed and outplayed their highly touted opponents. The defeat was the worst suffered by the Jewels since their college days at St. John's, where they were National Collegiate champs.

The Auditorium was jammed with over 1,000 cheering and delighted spectators who yelled approvingly as the Legionnaires swarmed all over the boys from Brooklyn.

Kurtyka and Shimek were decidedly "on" and dropped the ball in from all angles to score 34 points between them. The Hawk got eight fields and a foul while Frank arrived at the same total garnering seven fields and three fouls. The big gun for Brooklyn was Kinsbrunner, who accounted for 10 of the Jewels' 18 points.

First Period

The Kingston team stepped out in front in the opening period with an attack that had the Brooklynites back on their heels. Koehler scored first with a field a couple of minutes after the opening bell. Kinsbrunner followed this with a foul for the Jewels. Captain Carlisle Husta found the basket for a deuce and a foul in quick succession, which were followed by another deuce by Kurtyka. Husta sank another field. This fast bit of scoring had the Brooklyn team completely bewildered. They found themselves as Kinsbrunner dropped in a long shot. Koehler and Shimek added two more foul shots and Kinsbrunner scored again. The period ended as Kurtyka and Shimek both counted from the floor. The score stood at 14-5 in favor of the Legion.

Second Period

The second stanza opened with a foul, field and foul by "Hawk" and Frank. Burkhart scored for Brooklyn. This was followed by a foul shot by Kinsbrunner. The Legionnaires then accounted for four fields in a row as Shimek and Husta each looped the ball in twice. Slott got a deuce for the Jewels. Kurtyka dropped in another as the whistle sounded.

Final Period

When the ball sounded for the closing period the Kingston boys went wild. No less than nine shots from the field were made while the sorry Brooklynites fought for four deuces. Not a foul shot was made in the final period. It was Kurtyka, then Shimek, for 15 minutes of the most sensational scoring yet that the fans have ever witnessed at the Auditorium. Shimek scored five fields and Kurtyka three. Husta dropped in the ninth deuce and the boys were trying desperately to bring the total out to 50 when the final whistle blew.

Want A Basketball Upset? Call A 'Fire Department' Five To Douse A Favorite

By CHARLES GRUMICH
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Kansas City (AP)—Tear up your basketball form sheet! All is confusion! Coaches say the madcap, fast-breaking, "fire department" offense that often upsets the best laid plans of "scientific" coaches is to blame. Reaching "way back to the 1914 season, when basketball was still in the trial-and-error, fire-and-follow era, you will find that Oklahoma lost to Missouri by the lopsided score of 26-50—and came back the next night to win from the Tigers by 22-25.

They called it a startling upset. Seventeen years later, when basketball had acquired a lot of fancy trappings and intricate terminology, the highly polished Kansas State coaches of Pittsburgh defeated Wichita University's horum-scramum team, 52-22. A few weeks later Wichita handed Pittsburgh a 28-25 beating.

The experts went into another frenzy about upsets.

Fast-Break Confuses 'Scientists'

Now it's the 1935 season. The lack of a fifth straight big six score at the halftime intermission, of a tie for the conference leadership, about set players to forget all about the game. The "panic" of the other team, the and work, and have been pushing the opposition ever since.

Kendall Oil Five Loses to St. Peters

As a preliminary to the main attraction at the Municipal Auditorium last night, the St. Peter's Alumni quintet defeated the Kendall Oil Five by 19-11. The Alumni was out in front from the start clearly outplaying its opponent. Dykes, the right guard for the Oilmen, was high scorer with a count of seven. McAuley starred for the winners with six.

There were some exciting moments just before the final bell when flats began to fly. Tommy Murphy, the Bridge City star, and Andy Dykes came to blows when the latter stopped Murphy from making a basket. Tommy was handled a little more roughly than he liked and the fracas started. The Kendalls, led by Tony Debrosky, who rushed across the floor from the Kendall bench, closed in on the combatants and, with the help of the spectators, restored order.

Montclair, N. Dillon, born in Methuen, Mass., 50 years ago and a graduate of Phillips-Andover Academy, was varsity quarterback at Princeton for four seasons, the first Tiger field general to make use of the forward pass. 'Member Barney Ross, Mr. Canzoneri? Chicago Figures Rodak Is Good, Too!

By DICK STROBEL

Chicago (AP)—A powerfully built youngster, Leo Rodak, hailed as Chicago's most promising gift to the ring since Barney Ross climbed to the lightweight championship, has given himself one of the toughest assignments of his career—slencing his critics.

For four years, two as a professional, Rodak has been bowling over opponents with regularity and has established himself as a cool ring general, a boxer in the strictest sense of the word, and a puncher with ability to absorb as much as he gives.

In all his fights, 22 in number, he has held a weight advantage over his opponents, although on some occasions it has been a matter of only a pound or two. Those who have been watching the Polish youngster's rise want to see what he can do against a heavier foe.

To Face a Heavier Foe

Rodak gets that opportunity January 31 when he clashes with Tony Canzoneri in Chicago, his first bout as a lightweight. Canzoneri will outweigh Rodak by some three pounds and the fight may go a long way in determining how far Rodak can ascend pugilistic heights.

Rodak, born 22 years ago of Polish parents, commanded attention by becoming the only three-time Golden Gloves champion in Chicago. He took the flyweight title in 1931, the bantam crown in 1932, and the feather championship in 1933.

Defeat Won't Finish Him

Shortly thereafter he made his professional debut against Pete Magee, winning by a technical knockout in four rounds. Since then his record has been replete with victories and he has yet to be defeated.

Rodak's rise has been closely associated with the Catholic Youth Organization, with which he is still connected. In the 1931 C. Y. O. championship he was runnerup for the 118-pound title, and the following year defeated H. Booker in the featherweight class, only to become

Kingston High Will Play Newburgh Friday

Friday evening in the Newburgh Free Academy gym, the DUSO League's two Hudson river city representatives, Newburgh and Kingston, will clash in the first of their two home and home games.

In tomorrow night's contest Kingston is the favorite by a fairly secure margin. The favoritism is based on the scores of the Kingston and Newburgh games with Monticello both played on Monticello's "cheesebox" court. The Klammen easily defeated the mountaineers by the wide margin of 28-8, while Newburgh had to come from behind to win by one point, 23-22. Newburgh so far has had one of the poorest seasons in its history, winning only two games out of ten starts, both of these against DUSO teams, namely Middletown and Monticello. Previously Newburgh had been defeated by such small town schools as Cornwall, Cornwall-on-Hudson and Monroe.

In tomorrow's fray the Klammen are scheduled to lineup with Ed and Charles Rock, forwards; Jack Linden, center, and Lou Glenn and Ed Babi, guards. Newburgh's lineup consists of Hunter and Minnerly, forwards; Reuben, center, and the d'In-tolla brothers in the backcourt.

Stone Ridge Meets Zulu Giants Tonight

The Stone Ridge quintet will take on the Zulu Jungle Giants tonight at B. W. S. Hall, High Falls. The Giants will appear in their full African dress and war paint. Besides this unusual costume they will come with an impressive record of victories scored over some of the leading semi-pro fives in the eastern section. It is said that besides playing a good brand of basketball they inject a bit of comedy here and there.

To meet this contingent the Stone Riders will be on hand with their strongest lineup, which will include Knoll, Van Deusen, Chilton, Wood and Kelder, with Bruck in reserve. There will be a preliminary game, and dancing will follow the main attraction.

Jack Troy's Luckies Will Play Ellenville Five At White Eagle

Tomorrow night at White Eagle Hall, Jack Troy's Luckies will entertain the Ellenville Pioneers. The Pioneers come to Kingston with the reputation of playing some fast ball and have wins to their credit over such formidable quintets as Stone Ridge and the Rosendale Firemen. Everything points to a very busy evening for Jack's boys but the Luckies have come out on top in their last five games in a row and will strive tomorrow night to make it six.

Manager Tesso announces that his boys are in fine shape and that the Pioneers will know that they have been in a basketball game. The Luckies will present their strongest lineup which will include: Chilson, Van Elten and Miles, forwards; Schino, center, and Joyce, Dulin and Kelly, guards. The game will start at 9:15.

Two preliminaries are on the schedule in which Troy's Collegians and the Crusaders will see action. There is a lot of interest in the main attraction and a capacity crowd is expected to be on hand. Dancing will follow the games.

Here's Why British Tennis Was Eager To Swing Left!

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

London (AP)—England's decision to ease the rules governing amateur tennis came as no surprise to those close to the game in this country.

For weeks before the declaration that amateur stars should be permitted to appear in motion pictures, it had been evident that something was in the wind.

Members of the British association were convinced that Fred Perry, and probably Bunny Austin, intended to join the professionals as soon as they had defeated the Davis Cup in July.

"It would have opened the flood-gates for sure," H. Roger Barrett, chairman of the B. L. T. A., since he admitted, "There is no telling where the rush to abandon amateurism would have stopped."

Already worried about Perry, the British tennis fathers were made even more uneasy by the new offer of participating players to eight weeks on expense account each year. Perry, who has played almost continuously

Early Season Holdouts In Major Leagues Return Their Contracts

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—Strictly speaking, it is impossible at this time of year for any ball player to be a "holdout," but several well-known personalities are giving each other a "holdout" treatment.

But whether you call them holdouts or simply athletes in search of more "dough," the roll call grows steadily larger.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, for instance, were supposed to be a "big happy family" as far as baseball was concerned this year, but trouble looms. The Dodgers' tender, Van Lingle Mungo, fireball right hander, a contract called for a reported salary of $12,000 but Van tossed it back on the first bounce.

New there are rumblings that Ralph Boyle, Joe Stripp, Sam Leslie and Ralph Koenigs of the happy Dodgers family, also have seen their contracts come without any visible pleasure.

The Dodgers have 14 men under contract but the last 14 may be the hardest.

The Giants have signed 18 players, but the list doesn't include such key men as Dick Bartell, the fighting shortstop obtained from the Phillies; Hal Schumacher and Roy Parmelee, first-string right hander, and Joe Moore, crack outfielder. Reports say Bartell did not care for the figures the Giants' front office had written on his contract. There has been no definite word from the others.

The Pittsburgh Pirates usually are very secretive about their contract troubles, chiefly, perhaps, because they seldom have any serious difficulties, but Gus Suhr, their big first-baseman, admittedly is seeking more money. There is considerable doubt, too, whether Waite Hoyt, who slugged a sensational comeback last year, will sign at the first price the club offered.

The Chicago Cubs have signed 15 men but Chuck Klein may do plenty of arguing before he comes to an agreement. Seven Cardinals have accepted terms including the Dem brothers, Pepper, Martin and Le (Lippy) Durocher. Harland Foss, young outfielder, is the only Cincinnati player known to have objected to terms.

Zeke Bonura, first-baseman of the Chicago White Sox, is about the only serious contract-objector reported in the American League. One of last year's few real holdouts, Cliff Holton, Washington catcher who missed about half the season, signed early this year.

Bob Grove and Rick Ferrell have come to terms with the Red Sox; Fred Marberry, Goose Goslin and Charley Gehringer with the Tigers; Jack Knott, Buck Newsome, Ock Melillo, Alan Strange and eight others with the Browns; and Luis Appling with the White Sox.

The Yankees have no holdouts. They haven't dispatched their contracts yet.

WANTS PRO WRESTLING STOPPED IN MICHIGAN

Detroit, Jan. 31 (AP)—State Representative Stanley J. Romanick, who confesses a suppressed desire to climb into the ring himself and go to work on "some of those comedians," has proposed a law to abolish wrestling in Michigan because it "is a nuisance."

Romanick, a portly Democrat representing a Detroit district, has introduced a bill in the Michigan Legislature to eliminate commercialized wrestling in the state by forbidding the athletic board of control to issue a license for any "wrestling contest or exhibition."

"These wrestlers and wrestling promoters are in effect defrauding the public," declared the legislator. "The situation," said Representative Romanick sadly, "has become so bad that it can't be corrected. The only thing to do is to bar all such fraudulent matches in Michigan. That can be done by barring all matches, for few, if any, of them are honest."

HUDSON AND TERRAPLANE HAVE NEW HAND BRAKE LOCATION

With the elimination of the gearshift lever due to the use of the Electric Hand, the new method of gearshifting on the new Hudsons and Terraplanes, there is also a new position for the hand brake. As the Electric Hand clears the front compartment of the shifter lever, Hudson engineers have also taken out the usual hand brake control and placed it up under the cowl where it is easily reached when wanted, but is still out of the way. The result is a clear front compartment. The full three-passenger width of the front seat is then realized because there is no gearshift or brake mechanism in the way of the center passenger.

Father and Son Night Program

The Father and Son Night program for Friday night, February 3, at the Municipal Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Federated Men's Clubs of Kingston and vicinity is rapidly being rounded out into what will prove to be one of the most enjoyably worthwhile civic programs held in Kingston.

Gordon Craig, chairman of the committee in charge, says that this evening of good fellowship of men and boys, fathers and sons, will be remembered for a long time. . . by the men, because of the fact that they showed their interest in an activity that gave the boys a chance to associate with them in a "big brother" way and to enjoy an entertainment that might otherwise be denied them.

. . . by the boys, because he had a chance to mingle with the hundreds of other boys and men in a program that was planned primarily for him and one which gave him thrill after thrill as the different features of the evening came to the footlights, did their bit and then made way for the next.

The committee states that "The Father and Son" movement is nationwide and international; brings out the association between man and boy; it brings to the attention of the man that he has a civic, social and religious responsibility to the younger generation, to the boy, he who will take over the reins some day in his place; it impresses upon the boy that his father is not just the head of the house, but his leader and associate, to whom he may go for advice or fortune and tough luck, knowing that the man realizes the boy's place in the scheme of things and gladly accepts the responsibility. Father and Son Night gives both the chance to get together shoulder to shoulder with the father of the boy's pal and the son of the father's associate and enjoy their companionship.

It is hoped that no man will let the opportunity go by to take his own son, if he has one, if not, to take someone else's son to this big event, so that there will not be a boy in Kingston or vicinity who wants to go but who hasn't been given the chance.

To further this movement, the ministers in their several churches have all been glad to cooperate and most of them, wherever possible will either preach or in some way recognize next Sunday, February 3, as Father and Son Sunday and they hope to find their places of worship filled with the men and boys of their congregation.

A partial view of the program for Father and Son Night shows that the American Airways Corp. expect to cooperate by sending a representative to Kingston who is known all over the state as a popular feature for youth and adult interest; another nationally known entertainer who has proved the right to be called one of the best if not the best in this particular field of entertainment; a father and son combination that is welcome in any gathering will present a skit; there will also be the High School Orchestra, a double quartet and an official speaker, Prof. W. J. Reagan of the Oakland School for Boys in Poughkeepsie. A full list of the program will be published in a few days with several additions to these already mentioned.

All men's clubs or men's organizations are urged to broadcast this civic movement so that there will not be any boys missed who might wish to be there. There is no admission except the requirement that each man be accompanied by a boy and each boy must bring a man.

The selection, buying and preparation of the right kinds of Turkish tobaccos for making Chesterfield Cigarettes is a business in itself . . .

Handling Turkish tobacco in the Liggett & Myers modern factory at Smyrna, Turkey.

WE have buyers in all the tobacco markets of Turkey and Greece, including Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun.
And at Smyrna Chesterfield has built the most modern tobacco plant in the Near East.
Here the spicy, aromatic Turkish leaf is sorted and graded under the eyes of our own tobacco men.
Then it is put away to age in its own climate for two years or more to make it milder and better-tasting.
